Khrush Orders Shakeup in Production

Communist Party Told To Learn From Capitalists

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev today ordered a drastic shakeup of Soviet industry and agriculture to spur production of all kinds of goods, and told his Communist party it must "learn from the capitalists."

Khrushchev told the powerful 175-member Communist party Central Committee the primary emphasis would continue to be on heavy industry—and presumably armaments—rather than consumer goods. But he stressed new efforts to put more food and other consumer goods in Soviet shops.

The program was laid down in a long speech to the committee's special meeting on industry and agriculture reorganization. Its major recommendation called for tightening of party control over all phases of production.

Khrushchev also told the committee the Soviet Union should take a thoughtful look at what makes profits for the capitalists in the West.

"There was a time—I mean in the period of the personality cult (a phrase meaning the Stalin era)—when the idea was sedulously fostered that everything that is ours is unreservedly ideal, and everything that is foreign is equally bad," Khrushchev said.

"We should remember Lenin's injunction to be able, if necessary, to learn from the capitalists, to imitate the good and the profitable they have."

Khrushchev proposed two party organizations, one for control of industry, the other for agriculture. The party should create, he said, organizations paralleling those of specific industries from top to bottom, to unite all party members of any given industry. He proposed that the number of regional economic councils and farm production directorates be reduced and consolidated.

Other points he made:

1. Study should be given to idea of linking factories into "firms and combines" under one efficient management.
2. The power to construct fac-

Taft Prefers Taxes, Costs Both Be Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's new congressman-at-large, Robert Taft Jr., says he feels cuts in expenditures should come hand in hand with a tax cut.

Appearing before a national radio-television audience on ABC's "Issues and Answers," the son of the late Sen. Robert Taft was asked, "Are you saying there should be no tax reduction . . . until the budget is balanced?"

"I wouldn't say necessarily until the budget is balanced, but I think it would be a mistake to go ahead with a tax cut without a corresponding cut in the expenditure level . . . I think it would accept the confidence of the American people in their economy and the confidence of the world in the American economy."

Taft was asked if he thought the effort to beat the Russians to the moon "is a wise national goal?"

"I think it is very important that we continue to go ahead with a strong space program," Taft said. "I would put this in almost the same area as the defense establishment."

To a question on whether he would oppose President Kennedy's program of medicare, Taft said, "Yes, if a bill similar to the King-Anderson bill is proposed again, but I feel that in this bill are the seeds of medical control, rather than just care involved."

South Carolina Is Target Of School Integrationists

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP) — The school segregation barriers of South Carolina, the only state which has not admitted a Negro to a tax-supported white institution of learning, were to be assailed in U.S. District Court today.

Lawyers for Harvey G. Gantt, 19, a Charleston Negro, will ask that he be admitted to Clemson College, an all-white school since it was founded 73 years ago.

Gantt has been studying architecture at Iowa State University in Ames.

His case was to be tried by U.S. Dist. Judge C. C. Wyche of Spartanburg, who recently denied

Miller Hopes To Keep Job As GOP Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller of New York said today he wants to stay on the job as Republican national chairman in an effort to elect a GOP president in 1964.

Miller said he has surveyed and found good the Nov. 6 election results in which the Republicans made some significant gains in important governorships, picked up a net of two seats in the House and lost four in the Senate.

This outcome has prompted some suggestions that the party needs a full-time, paid chairman who would direct a professional organization drive for the presidential campaign.

When Miller took office he said that if he found that he didn't have time for both the chairmanship and his duties as a member of the House, he would quit one of the jobs. He serves in the chairmanship without pay.

Miller said in an interview he believes he has demonstrated in the nearly two years he has held the party post that he has not stunted his work there or in Congress. He added that, as of now, he hopes to continue in the dual role. Few doubted that he would be challenged in that decision.

New Mexico Dem Senator, 74, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Dennis Chavez is dead of a heart attack at 74.

The veteran New Mexico Democrat died unexpectedly early Sunday in Georgetown University Hospital.

His successor will be named by Gov. Edwin L. Mechem. New Mexico's outgoing Republican chief executive, Mechem, who leaves office Jan. 1, is considered a prime prospect for the Senate term which runs until the general election in 1964.

If the post goes to Mechem or a fellow Republican, he will be the first GOP senator from New Mexico in a generation. The lineup of the new Senate had been 68 Democrats and 32 Republicans.

Short Work Week Faces State Liquor Probers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The special grand jury investigating State Liquor Department operations will meet for only a day and a half this week as counsel prepares to interview a key witness next Monday before the jurors.

Gale Clymer of the Liquor Department will make his third appearance before the jury this afternoon. Scheduled to testify Tuesday is Cassius Aurelius Boone III, vice president of Barton Distillery Co. of Chicago.

a request for a temporary injunction requiring Gantt's immediate admission to Clemson.

Clemson President Robert C. Edwards testified at that hearing that Gantt had not completed his application properly. He also said Clemson has no policy in regard to admission of Negroes.

The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Judge Wyche's denial of the injunction, and sent the case back to him for trial.

There have been past attempts to integrate the University of South Carolina at Columbia and Winthrop College, the state school for women at Rock Hill. In each case, the applying Negroes failed to press their attempts to a conclusive decision in the courts.

More than 2,000 Negroes are now enrolled in formerly white colleges in Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Mississippi.

The university of Alabama admitted Atherine Lucy, a Negro girl, several years ago. She was expelled for making charges against school officials, and the university now has no Negro students.

At the University of Mississippi, a lone Negro, James H. Meredith, is attending classes.

Gantt is described by faculty members and classmates at Iowa State as quiet and studious. He has been a good student, but not a brilliant one. His Iowa grades were slightly below the "B" average level.

He wants to finish his study of architecture at Clemson, the only school in South Carolina where that type of instruction is available.

Retirement Funds Climb

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio four retirement systems had total assets of $1,454,192,205 at the close of October — an increase of more than $165 million or 12.8 per cent above October of last year, State Auditor James Rhodes reported today.

Greatest gain in total assets during the year was recorded by the Public Employees Retirement System, which increased more than $76 million or 13.2 per cent and stood at more than $652 million at the end of last month. The School Employees Retirement System, with total assets in excess of $109 million, registered the greatest percentage increase—14.7 per cent.

The Teachers Retirement System, with assets of more than $687 million, increased 12.2 per cent while the Highway Patrol Pension Fund, with assets of nearly 5 million, gained 9.6 per cent.

Leading Nuclear Physicist Is Dead

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Dr. Neils Bohr, one of the century's leading nuclear physicists, is dead at 77.

He was stricken by a heart attack Sunday and died in his Copenhagen home.

Bohr, an absent-minded professor admired by scholars for his inspiring influence, generally was ranked second only to the late Albert Einstein among physicists of the 20th century.

"Our greatest living physicist has died," said Dr. Hans Bethe, who worked with Bohr on the development of the atomic bomb in the United States. Bethe of Ithaca, N.Y., said Bohr's death "leaves a void which nobody can fill."

DeGaulle Given Big Victory by French Voters

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today emerged from the first round of the National Assembly elections with a new and resounding victory over France's old line political parties.

The Gaullist Union for a New Republic (UNR), with a one-plank platform of unswerving loyalty to De Gaulle, displaced the Communists as France's strongest political party.

The UNR won 50 of the 104 seats decided Sunday and led in 254 of the 369 districts of metropolitan France where runoffs will be held next Sunday. The party's share of the popular vote nearly doubled, from 17.5 per cent in 1958 to 31.9 per cent.

Although Interior Minister Roger Frey predicted the UNR would wind up with a majority in the 481 member assembly this appeared unlikely. Even if it won all the runoffs in the races in which its candidates led, it would still be about 60 short of a majority. But the Gaullists were expected to draw enough support from segments of the Popular Republicans (MRP), the Independents and the Radical Socialists to form the next government.

Along among the old parties, the Communists registered a gain—a slight one—in voting percentages, advancing from 18.9 in 1958 to 21.75.

All other parties lost ground—a development dramatically spotlighted in the crushing defeat of ex-Premier Paul Reynaud by a colorless Gaullist in the north, and a sharp rebuff to a comeback attempt by ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Complete official returns from Metropolitan France, including Corsica, gave 18,931,733 votes cast.

The vote totals for the major parties and their percentages (1958 percentages in parentheses) were:

UNR—46 seats, 5,847,403 votes, 31.9 per cent (17.5); Communists—9 seats, 3,992,431, 21.78 (18.9); Independent - Republicans and Peasants (conservatives) — 13 seats, 2,458,988, 13.42 (19.9); Socialists — 1 seat, 2,319,662, 12.65 (15.5); Popular Republicans (MRP)—14 seats, 1,635,452, 8.92 (11.8); Radical Socialists, 8 seats, 1,384,998, 7.56 (11.5).

First returns on the 16 seats at stake in overseas departments gave the UNR 4 seats, the MRP 3 and the Radical Socialists 1.

Gaullist strength in the last assembly was 176.

He said checks with mayors of surrounding communities indicated most of them plan no action. promised Sunday crackdowns proclaimed by many suburban mayors.

Sea Disasters Leave Toll Of 144, Dead or Missing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A casualty roll of world sea disasters edged upward today, with 144 persons listed as dead or missing in a series of mishaps that started last week. Trouble in the Atlantic and the Pacific, the North Sea and the Mediterranean ran shipping losses into millions of dollars.

Nearly 100 seafarers were rescued from vessels sunk, battered or disabled by howling weekend storms. High waves pounded the coasts of Puerto Rico and Cuba, causing death, injury, and property damage.

The entire 36-man crew of the Japanese gasoline tanker Munakata Maru was presumed killed in a blazing inferno following a collision Sunday with another tanker in a narrow fog-shrouded channel of Tokyo Bay.

Thirty-two bodies had been recovered.

The fire was believed touched off by a barge's funnel sparks dropping on high-octane gasoline leaking from the damaged 1,972-ton Munakata Maru. She carried 950,000 gallons of gasoline.

Three crewmen on two barges caught in the flames also were lost.

The 47 persons aboard the 21,634-ton Norwegian tanker Tharald Brovig, the other ship in the collision, were rescued. Ten suffered minor injuries.

The ships crashed and locked 200 yards from shore in Kawasaki Canal 12 miles from Tokyo.

Elsewhere at sea:

The 11 crewmen of the fishing scalloper Midnight Sun, out of New Bedford, Mass., were unaccounted for after a storm at sea Wednesday. The vessel failed to return to port when due Saturday.

Twelve Spanish fishermen were presumed drowned in a storm off the Spain's north coast Sunday. Their last radioed report said their boat was leading.

Japan's Maritime Safety Agency reported two Japanese fishing boats with 26 crewmen were missing between their home ports and Oknawa. It said they were believed to have run into typhoon Karen, which skirted the Ryukyu Islands last weekend.

Cuban Radar Seen Faulty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A primary reason behind the Cuban government's grounding of domestic aviation may be radar difficulty in detecting and tracking U.S. reconnaissance planes.

The planes were grounded Sunday, following Premier Fidel Castro's warning late last week that surveillance craft flying over Cuba will be destroyed.

Low and high flying American reconnaissance planes, keeping tab on former missile sites and other military developments, aroused Castro's ire.

Military radar for locating and tracing aircraft has been installed recently by the Russians for Cuba but there appears to be some question about its efficiency in its present form.

Military radar must be able to separate friendly or false targets from a true target. This requires considerable "sophistication" in the equipment and in the ability of crews to interpret radar signals.

Cool Culture Due In White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cool culture comes to the White House today.

A jazz concert—the first ever held in the stately old executive mansion—will be presented by a young sextet that wants President Kennedy to keep on sending U.S. jazzmen abroad in the cultural exchange program.

The jazz session is the fifth of a series of Concerts for Youth sponsored by Mrs. Kennedy.

Sons and daughters of ambassadors and chiefs of diplomatic missions here will join the children of Cabinet officials for the late afternoon concert in the East Ballroom.

Five British rescuers and four fishermen perished under a huge wave that capsized their lifeboat Saturday at the harbor entrance to Seaham, Britain. A fifth fisherman was saved. The rescue crew had taken the fishermen off their battered boat.

A search continued Monday off the Bermuda and North Carolina coasts for five crewmen missing with their 35-foot sailing schooner, the Windfall, since Thursday.

a race with another ill-fated schooner from Mystic, Conn., to the Virgin Islands. The other schooner, the Curlew, foundered off Bermuda. Its crew was rescued.

Another search off Bermuda was abandoned for 15 seamen from the Greek freighter Captain George, rocked by an explosion Wednesday. The 25-man crew, unable to contain a fire aboard the explosive-laden ship, took to lifeboats Thursday. Seven were rescued. Three bodies were recovered. Five of the survivors were landed in Philadelphia.

Sixteen of 18 persons from a capsized motorboat were reported missing today by Philippine authorities. The boat overturned Wednesday in the Sulu Archipelago. Fishermen reportedly rescued two persons.

European Tradesmen Warned By U.S. on Farm Policies

PARIS (AP)—The United States told Western European trade officials today that their restrictive farm import trade policies threaten the unity and strength of the West. It warned that Washington has the power to take retaliatory measures.

The American view was outlined in a talk prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman for delivery to the agricultural committee of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. Its membership is made up of Western European countries, Canada and the United States.

Freeman's talk had been approved by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"Not only maintenance of trade but the continued unity and strength of the Western world is at stake," Freeman told the meeting.

He said the United States was concerned particularly about farm policies being developed by the European Common Market composed of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg. Great Britain may become a member soon.

West European producers of wheat, feed grains, rice and poultry—major U.S. exports to that area—are being given preference over American and other outside suppliers through imposition of import levies.

Steps being taken by the Common Market, Freeman said, "are going to be the largest single factor determining whether the agricultural systems of the world are mindful of the need for international harmony or whether agriculture retreats into a shell of nationalism."

The United States, he said, has a policy of promoting liberal world trade. Furthermore, he said it believes the balance of the non-Communist world should follow a similar policy.

Freeman told the Europeans a trade expansion act passed by the last Congress directs the President to take "all appropriate and feasible steps" to eliminate unjustifiable import restrictions on U.S. farm products.

"Such steps may include," he said, "retaliatory action, if necessary, against imports from the country in question."

Marion Feels Crackdown on Sunday Sales

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Food, newspapers and clothing stores took the brunt of a Sunday-closing law enforcement drive here Sunday.

While groceries, self-service laundries, discount houses, and several newspaper delivery routes closed down, service stations, restaurants, movie theaters and bars—selling 3.2 beer—remained open.

The enforcement drive resulted in summonses issued to two drug stores. At one a uniformed policeman bought a light bulb and at the other another uniformed officer purchased work gloves and flashlight batteries.

The drive was called for early last week by the Marion County Ministerial Association and the downtown retail merchants division of the Marion Area Chamber of Commerce. The groups noted Marion County voters defeated a proposed amendment to the state constitution concerning the closing laws by 67 per cent.

5 Sailors Risk Great Odds, Are Safe in Abandoning Ship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five survivors of the Greek freighter Captain George unfolded a touching and ironical story today of how they risked great odds in abandoning the burning ship while fellow crewmen took a safer lifeboat but were lost in the stormy Atlantic Ocean.

Of the 25-man crew, seven were rescued. The bodies of three others have been recovered and 15 are still missing.

The five men, all from the Aegean area of Greece, arrived here late Sunday night aboard the Liberian-flag tanker, the Trinity Navigator. The Trinity picked them up from the Atlantic more than 200 miles northeast of Bermuda after they abandoned the Captain George in a storm Thursday.

The five men were Antonius Arapis, 47, Costas Veletas, 20, Themis Patatzis, 36, George Anthias, 24, and Stelios Paschalides, 55.

Veletas and Paschalides, speaking through an interpreter, explained that there was one lifeboat on the right side of the Captain George and another on the left side. The right side was the windward side facing into heavy gales.

When the master ordered the crew to abandon ship after the men stayed with it 18 hours trying to extinguish the fire and jet-tisoning the cargo of ammunition from the holds, the five were unable to get to the left-side lifeboat because of a heavy screen of sulphur fumes.

They decided to go over the windward side. The other crew members preferred to wait and go on the boat which was safer—on the leeward side.

As it turned out, the five were rescued after being in the water about an hour. Twenty crewmen piled into the other lifeboat, but only two of them were rescued by another Liberian-flag tanker, the Virginia which headed for Montreal.

The men were examined by a doctor who said none of them suffered any serious injuries. They left for New York where they will undergo further examination and interrogation.

Nehru's Troops Falling Back Before Drive

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall to the Chinese Communists of Bomdila, 25 miles from the plains of Assam.

His announcement followed by only a matter of hours news from the Defense Ministry that Indian defense positions on the Se Pass had been overrun and that fighting had moved 32 air miles to the southeast, into the outskirts of Bomdila, in fighting on the western end of the long border front.

Indian troops from Se Pass, caught between two Chinese forces, are now trying to fight Indians around Bomdila.

Prime Minister Nehru had announced earlier the fall of the vital Himalayan Se Pass to a prong of a massive Red Chinese offensive probing toward the densely populated plains of Assam.

The Chinese outflanked Indian troops on 13,756-foot-high Se Pass, forcing them to withdraw, Nehru told Parliament.

The loss of the pass came as the Chinese Communists, attacking in waves, pressed their renewed offensive at both ends of the 1,500-mile frontier stretching from Burma to Kashmir.

At the eastern end of the battle line, the Chinese posed a separate advance of 12 miles from the key defense post of Wanglung, which they captured Friday. Wanglung lies some 300 miles east of Se Pass.

In Ladakh, at the northwest end of the disputed border, the Chinese have taken an outpost guarding a vital Indian airfield at Chushul and fighting is continuing in the area, Nehru said.

His announcement of the new reverses came after a speech Sunday night in which he said the Chinese offensive is threatening Indian independence. He said other countries are now beginning to realize that this is not a border dispute but "naked, crude and shameless aggression."

A Peking broadcast quoted Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai as saying U.S. arms aid to India will enlarge the conflict "to the detriment of the Chinese and Indian people and of the Afro-Asian peoples." About $5 million worth of badly needed infantry weapons have been flown to India by the United States.

Peking radio claimed that after capturing Se Pass the Chinese pressed their advance to the southeast in the direction of the Indian army's advance headquarters on the Dhirang River.

The Indian army was reported planning to put their next defense frontier district at 8,726-foot Bomdila, on the next ridge of an Indian-built road running to Tezpur on the Assam plains.

The fall of Wanglung near the Burma border came after the biggest battle since the Chinese first struck.

Although Interior Minister Roger Frey predicted the UNR would wind up with a majority in the 481 member assembly this appeared unlikely. Even if it won all the runoffs in the races in which its candidates led, it would still be about 60 short of a majority. But the Gaullists were expected to draw enough support from segments of the Popular Republicans (MRP), the Independents and the Radical Socialists to form the next government.

Along with the old parties, the Communists registered a gain—a slight one—in voting percentages, advancing from 18.9 in 1958 to 21.75.

All other parties lost ground—a development dramatically spotlighted in the crushing defeat of ex-Premier Paul Reynaud by a colorless Gaullist in the north, and a sharp rebuff to a comeback attempt by ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Complete official returns from Metropolitan France, including Corsica, gave 18,931,733 votes cast.

The vote totals for the major parties and their percentages (1958 percentages in parentheses) were:

UNR—46 seats, 5,847,403 votes, 31.9 per cent (17.5); Communists—9 seats, 3,992,431, 21.78 (18.9); Independent - Republicans and Peasants (conservatives)—13 seats, 2,458,988, 13.42 (19.9); Socialists—1 seat, 2,319,662, 12.65 (15.5); Popular Republicans (MRP)—14 seats, 1,635,452, 8.92 (11.8); Radical Socialists, 8 seats, 1,384,998, 7.56 (11.5).

First returns on the 16 seats at stake in overseas departments gave the UNR 4 seats, the MRP 2 and the Radical Socialists 1.

Gaullist strength in the last assembly was 176.

Sea Disasters Leave Toll Of 144, Dead or Missing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A casualty roll of world sea disasters edged upward today, with 144 persons listed as dead or missing in a series of mishaps that started last week.

Trouble in the Atlantic and the Pacific, the North Sea and the Mediterranean ran shipping losses into millions of dollars.

Nearly 100 seafarers were rescued from vessels sunk, battered or disabled by howling weekend storms. High waves pounded the coasts of Puerto Rico and Cuba, causing death, injury, and property damage.

The entire 36-man crew of the Japanese gasoline tanker Munakata Maru was presumed killed in a blazing inferno following a collision Sunday with another tanker in a narrow fog-shrouded channel of Tokyo Bay.

Thirty-two bodies had been recovered.

The fire was believed touched off by a barge's funnel sparks dropping on high-octane gasoline leaking from the damaged 1,972-ton Munakata Maru. She carried 950,000 gallons of gasoline.

Three crewmen on two barges caught in the flames also were lost.

The 47 persons aboard the 21,634-ton Norwegian tanker Tharald Brovig, the other ship in the collision, were rescued. Ten suffered minor injuries.

The ships crashed and locked 200 yards from shore in Kawasaki Canal 12 miles from Tokyo.

Elsewhere at sea:

The 11 crewmen of the fishing scalloper Midnight Sun, out of New Bedford, Mass., were unaccounted for after a storm at sea Wednesday. The vessel failed to return to port when due Saturday.

Twelve Spanish fishermen were presumed drowned in a storm off the Spain's north coast Sunday. Their last radioed report said their boat was leading.

Japan's Maritime Safety Agency reported two Japanese fishing boats with 26 crewmen were missing between their home ports and Okinawa. It said they were believed to have run into typhoon Karen, which skirted the Ryukyu Islands last weekend.

Cuban Radar Seen Faulty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A primary reason behind the Cuban government's grounding of domestic aviation may be radar difficulty in detecting and tracking U.S. reconnaissance planes.

The planes were grounded Sunday, following Premier Fidel Castro's warning late last week that surveillance craft flying over Cuba will be destroyed.

Low and high flying American reconnaissance planes, keeping tabs on former missile sites and other military developments, aroused Castro's ire.

Military radar for locating and tracing aircraft has been installed recently by the Russians for Cuba but there appears to be some question about its efficiency in its present form.

Military radar must be able to separate friendly or false targets from a true target. This requires considerable "sophistication" in the equipment and in the ability of crews to interpret radar signals.

Cool Culture Due In White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cool culture comes to the White House today.

A jazz concert—the first ever held in the stately old executive mansion—will be presented by a young sextet that wants President Kennedy to keep on sending U.S. jazzmen abroad in the cultural exchange program.

The jazz session is the fifth of a series of Concerts for Youth sponsored by Mrs. Kennedy.

Sons and daughters of ambassadors and chiefs of diplomatic missions here will join the children of Cabinet officials for the late afternoon concert in the East Ballroom.

lied to have run into typhoon Karen, which skirted the Ryukyu Islands last weekend.

Five British rescuers and four fishermen perished under a huge wave that capsized their lifeboat Saturday at the harbor entrance to Seaham, Britain. A fifth fisherman was saved. The rescue crew had taken the fishermen off their battered boat.

A search continued Monday off the Bermuda and North Carolina coasts for five crewmen missing with their 35-foot sailing schooner, the Windfall, since Thursday a race with another ill-fated schooner from Mystic, Conn., to the Virgin Islands. The other schooner, the Curlew, foundered

European Tradesmen Warned By U.S. on Farm Policies

PARIS (AP)—The United States told Western European trade officials today that their restrictive farm import trade policies threaten the unity and strength of the West. It warned that Washington has the power to take retaliatory measures.

The American view was outlined in a talk prepared by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman for delivery to the agricultural committee of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. Its membership is made up of Western European countries, Canada and the United States.

Freeman's talk had been approved by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"Not only maintenance of trade but the continued unity and strength of the Western world is at stake," Freeman told the meeting.

He said the United States was concerned particularly about farm policies being developed by the European Common Market composed of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg. Great Britain may become a member soon.

West European producers of wheat, feed grains, rice and poultry—major U.S. exports to that area—are being given preference over American and other outside suppliers through imposition of import levies.

Steps being taken by the Common Market, Freeman said, "are going to be the largest single factor determining whether the agricultural systems of the world are mindful of the need for international harmony or whether agriculture retreats into a shell of nationalism."

The United States, he said, has a policy of promoting liberal world trade. Furthermore, he said off Bermuda. Its crew was rescued.

Another search off Bermuda was abandoned for 15 seamen from the Greek freighter Captain George, rocked by an explosion Wednesday. The 25-man crew, unable to contain a fire aboard the explosive-laden ship, took to lifeboats Thursday. Seven were rescued. Three bodies were recovered. Five of the survivors were landed in Philadelphia.

Sixteen of 18 persons from a capsized motorboat were reported missing today by Philippine authorities. The boat overturned Wednesday in the Sulu Archipelago. Fishermen reportedly rescued two persons.

It believes the balance of the non-Communist world should follow a similar policy.

Freeman told the Europeans a trade expansion act passed by the last Congress directs the President to take "all appropriate and feasible steps" to eliminate unjustifiable import restrictions on U.S. farm products.

"Such steps may include," he said, "retaliatory action, if necessary, against imports from the country in question."

Marion Feels Crackdown on Sunday Sales

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Food, newspapers and clothing stores took the brunt of a Sunday-closing law enforcement drive here Sunday.

While groceries, self-service laundries, discount houses, and several newspaper delivery routes closed down, service stations, restaurants, movie theaters and bars—selling 3.2 beer—remained open.

The enforcement drive resulted in summonses issued to two drug stores. At one a uniformed policeman bought a light bulb and at the other another uniformed officer purchased work gloves and flashlight batteries.

The drive was called for early last week by the Marion County Ministerial Association and the downtown retail merchants division of the Marion Area Chamber of Commerce. The groups noted Marion County voters defeated a proposed amendment to the state constitution concerning the closing laws by 67 per cent.

5 Sailors Risk Great Odds, Are Safe in Abandoning Ship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five survivors of the Greek freighter Captain George unfolded a touchingly ironic story today of how they risked great odds in abandoning the burning ship while fellow crewmen took a safer lifeboat but were lost in the stormy Atlantic Ocean.

Of the 25-man crew, seven were rescued. The bodies of three others have been recovered and 15 are still missing.

The five men, all from the Aegean area of Greece, arrived here late Sunday night aboard the Liberian-flag tanker, the Trinity Navigator. The Trinity picked them up from the Atlantic more than 200 miles northeast of Bermuda after they abandoned the Captain George in a storm Thursday.

The five men were Antonius Arapis, 47, Costas Veletzas, 20, Themis Patatzis, 36, George Anthias, 24, and Stelios Paschalides, 55.

Veletzas and Paschalides, speaking through an interpreter, explained that there was one lifeboat on the right side of the Cap-

Nehru's Troops Falling Back Before Drive

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall to the Chinese Communists of Bomidila, 25 miles from the plains of Assam.

His announcement followed by only a matter of hours news from the Defense Ministry that Indian defense positions on the Se Pass had been overrun and that fighting had moved 32 air miles to the southeast, into the outskirts of Bomidila, in fighting on the western end of the long border front.

Indian troops from Se Pass, caught between two Chinese forces, are now trying to fight Indians around Bomidila.

Prime Minister Nehru had announced earlier the fall of the vital Himalayan Se Pass to a prong of a massive Red Chinese offensive probing toward the densely populated plains of Assam.

The Chinese outflanked Indian troops on 13,756-foot-high Se Pass, forcing them to withdraw, Nehru told Parliament.

The loss of the pass came as the Chinese Communists, attacking in waves, pressed their renewed offensive at both ends of the 1,500-mile frontier stretching from Burma to Kashmir.

At the eastern end of the battle line, the Chinese posed a separate advance of 12 miles from the key defense post of Walong, which they captured Friday. Walong lies some 300 miles east of Se Pass.

In Ladakh, at the northwest end of the disputed border, the Chinese have taken an outpost guarding a vital Indian airfield at Chushul and fighting is continuing in the area, Nehru said.

His announcement of the new reverses came after a speech Sunday night in which he said the Chinese offensive is threatening Indian independence. He said other countries are now beginning to realize that this is not a border dispute but "naked, crude and shameless aggression."

A Peking broadcast quoted Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai as saying U.S. arms aid to India will enlarge the conflict "to the detriment of the Chinese and Indian people and of the Afro-Asian peoples." About $5 million worth of badly needed infantry weapons have been flown to India by the United States.

Peking radio claimed that after capturing Se Pass the Chinese pressed their advance to the southeast in the direction of the Indian army's advance headquarters on the Dhirang River.

The Indian army was reported planning to put their next defense frontier district at 8,726-foot Bomidila, on the next ridge of an Indian-built road running to Tezpur on the Assam plains.

The fall of Walong near the Burma border came after the biggest battle since the Chinese first struck.

Stock Market Turns Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed in fairly active trading early this afternoon, slicing some gains made at the session's start.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .2 to 232.9 with industrial off .5, rails up .1, and utilities unchanged.

Gains and losses of most pivotal issues were fractional, but a few went to a point or so.

The leading steels were narrowly mixed. Some of the top rails were steady to higher. The aerospace section was thoroughly scrambled, with some recent big gainers taking sharp losses.

General Dynamics fell a point and Grumman fell over a point. Boeing was unchanged. Douglas Aircraft spurted more than a point.

Juveniles Admit Breaking Window

Two Washington C. H. girls, ages 15 and 17, have been released to Fayette County juvenile authorities after they had admitted throwing a rock through a large window at Sharff's Store, W. Main St., last week.

The girls were apprehended by Circleville Police. Both admitted they had run away from their homes in Washington C. H. last month. They said they had been staying in Columbus Mt. Vernon and Circleville.

The juveniles were picked up by Sgt. Leroy Hawks and Patrolmen Richard Anderson and Dixie Walters. An interrogation disclosed that the girls had smashed the Sharff's window in an effort to get a cold covered with money.

Officers said they also admitted following a crew of pipeline employees working in this area.

Officer Curry Resigns Post As Patrolman

Jay Curry, a regular patrolman with the Circleville Police Department, has submitted his resignation to Chief Robert Temple.

Curry, appointed a special officer in April 1960, has accepted a job with the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant here. His resignation becomes effective Nov. 30.

Patrolman Curry said his new job promises more money and less hours than the police job of fers. He said he has enjoyed working with the local department and fellow officers for the past 2½ years.

The patrolman worked as a special officer for one year. In April of last year he was named a regular member of the staff.

CHIEF TEMPLE said the resignation leaves his department short of two regular officers. The force now consists of the chief, three sergeants, five regular patrolmen and three special officers.

Curry is a graduate of Circleville High School where he starred as a football player and is a veteran of the U. S. Navy.

Gerald Goldsberry, who joined the department the same time Curry did, resigned several months ago. Temple said he was sorry to lose both men whom he commended for their service here.

Korean Police Busy

The military junta headed by Gen. Chung Hee Park in Korea has countered a period of letdown with a 15-day cycle of arrests. In what was classed as an "anti-crime" movement, 13,749 persons were caught in police nets.

Following a currency reform the regime clamped on import controls seeking to halt the outflow of scarce reserves. This applied to luxury items such as coffee, or cigarettes which Korea can produce from its own tobacco, foreign made clothing and other items not government approved.

A natural follow-up to improvement in the monetary system was availability of funds for scarce items. A black market sequence followed, but recent arrests have applied a damper to that risky business.

Another stringent enforcement is traffic control. Koreans, like other Asians, disregard traffic lights or intersection rules. Death and injury rates are high. Animal and human drawn carts compete with other vehicles for right-of-way. Arrests are designed to educate the public.

A new custom is using prisoners for road work instead of letting them rest idly in jail. The program may be rough but it is teaching respect for law.

Astounding Tokyo Record

Tokyo, the world's largest city, with a population of more than 10 million, reports that it had only 7,797 fires in 1961. New York City had 61,644 fires last year, more than twice as many as the combined total for Tokyo, London and Paris.

The Tokyo record is astounding, especially when one considers the density of its population and the claustrophobia-inducing qualities of some of its residential districts, but more astounding is the record of Japan's fifth largest city, Kyoto, which, although it has a population of 1.3 million, reported only 394 fires in 1961.

There must be some logical explanation for Kyoto's amazing fire prevention record, and there is. Five years ago, the fire department there organized a "fire bureau" to facilitate fire prevention, and since that time fires have decreased from 756 in 1955 to the present total.

Apparently this fire bureau works 24 hours each day drumming into citizens all the accepted fire prevention rules and urging them to cooperate with their neighbors in putting out minor blazes which, if unchecked, could grow into damaging fires.

Obviously the fact that arson is considered as serious a crime as murder in Japan plays a major role in fire prevention in that country, and so does the knowledge that the law takes a grave view of fires caused by carelessness.

Nevertheless, a public which has been taught how to prevent fires and how to extinguish minor blazes should receive the major portion of credit.

Oldster Marriages Are Plentiful

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

There are about 35,000 U.S. marriages each year with one or both partners 65 or older.

The older they are, the more likely they are to choose younger mates. Among bridegrooms in the 75-and-up bracket, 12 per cent picked brides at least 25 years younger; 18 per cent of brides in the same age group wed men 10 or more years younger.

It's against the law in the Sudan to send leeches through the mails. The oldest tomb to unknown American soldiers is in Trinity churchyard in New York City. Called the "Martyrs' Monument," the tomb honors American troops who died in British prison camps during the Revolutionary War. Researchers have discovered that the tears a woman sheds when emotionally upset they chemically differ from those she weeps while peeling onions.

The New York Telephone Co. reports some novel uses for its massive Manhattan directory, which runs to nearly 1,800 pages. A young baseball catcher threatened rope through one and employed it as a chest protector. A South American banana firm bought old directories to bullet-proof its trucks.

Highway safety signs in Maryland: "Be late, Mr. Jones—not the late Mr. Jones." In Delaware: "Take your time, not your life. Drive safely."

Many think Franklin D. Roosevelt invented the presidential press conference. Actually, Woodrow Wilson held the first general one in the White House on March 15, 1913, just 11 days after taking office.

Since the end of World War II, new life-saving drugs have reduced U.S. tuberculosis deaths by 83 per cent, influenza deaths, 90 per cent, and deaths from syphilis by 79 per cent.

America has about three-fourths of all the world's automobiles. There are twice as many cars in Los Angeles as in all South America.

It was Logan Pearsall Smith who observed, "Whens they come downstairs from their ivory towers, idealists are apt to walk straight into the gutter."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—A whole way of life is involved in the plan to cut taxes and reform the system. And that's likely to complicate action in the next Congress far beyond the simple popular slogan of lower rates and fewer loopholes.

An entire generation of business executives and countless other individuals are addicted to what is known as half-price thinking. Many products and programs seem to cost only half of what the ticket says because of the tax saving. Or, the other way around, many seeming advantages or rewards are worth only half what they promise because of the extra tax liability.

For one example, charitable organizations know that much of the gifts from corporations are tinted by the knowledge that if it wasn't given, taxes would take half of it anyway. Some charities are wondering today if their income will drop if tax rates do.

Or, the other side of the coin, many with executive skills know that a better paying job will not only a part of its face value. In the higher tax bracket a large part of the raise will melt away.

Critics of the present high tax rates argue that often it doesn't seem worth the effort to try to produce more and earn more. Or those at the top turn to other forms of compensation—stock options, company bought insurance, salary payments deferred till after retirement.

And the tax laws are now so complicated, especially at the corporate level, that perhaps 100,000 tax specialists work full time tackling others' problems.

Corporations also hire executives and countless clerks to handle the many official forms and seek out the most advantageous approach.

Avoidance of taxes is an art in itself, both for corporations and for individuals. Many business brains that might be concentrated on earning more income are occupied in trying to save on taxes. Business and individuals often find they're ahead this way in the long run.

Advocates of tax cuts and simplification say that the general economy suffers as a result.

Economists at the First National City Bank of New York put it

this way: "In high brackets, extra work is no longer worthwhile. Our punitive tax rates have led to the enactment of countless special relief laws and made them costly and difficult to administer and obey."

Morgan Guaranty economists add that half-price thinking has played a part in the wage-price spiral of inflation since World War II, since companies have felt that half of the wage increase would go for taxes otherwise and so haven't tried, until lately, to halt the spiral.

Half-price thinking also affects the manner of financing business expansion. Instead of offering new stocks many companies have relied on borrowing money. Interest payments are charged off before taxes, and thus seem half-price. Stockholders expect dividends, but these are paid out of a company's profits after tax net income, and thus seem full-price.

So, there's more to tax rates and systems than just the pain of filling out tax forms and getting up the payments.

In 1918 President Woodrow Wilson set aside an Alaskan valley and adjacent areas as the Katmai National Monument. Its highest peak, formerly called Knife Peak, was renamed Mt. Griggs in 1959 in honor of botanist Robert F. Griggs, who brought it to the nation's attention.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A VERY PRETTY girl was accused of shoplifting. At her trial, her lawyer instructed her to burst into tears every time he thumped the table. She was doing just fine, until a moment when the lawyer banged the table by accident. Her sobs puzzled the judge, who demanded, "What's bothering you now?"

Still weeping, the defendant explained, "My lawyer told me I should weep every time he hit the table." The court room resounded with laughter, but the girl's lawyer turned defeat into victory. "Gentlemen of the jury," he proclaimed, "how can you reconcile the idea of crime with such childish innocence and naivete?" And, by golly, the jury found her not guilty.

A shiny new quarter slipped out of Mike Breslaue's hand, and rolled clear across the floor and under his bed. "Despite all the economists," pointed out Monsieur Breslaue, "you can see for yourselves that money goes as far as it ever did."

The defendant in a big fraud case showed signs of panic on the witness stand. His high-priced lawyer, seeking to restore his confidence, told him in a stage whisper, "Take it easy, man. All you've got to do is tell the jury, in my words, exactly what happened!"

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.
You want a baby, but you can't seem to have one. What should you do?

Both you and your husband should consult a woman's specialist (gynecologist) or a special fertility clinic.

To have a baby an egg cell must mature and wander down the tube towards the womb. Meanwhile, a male sperm cell has to fight its way through the womb up into the tube.

It must fertilize the female cell within 24 hours. Then the fertilized cell drifts down and nests in the womb wall.

Because so few sperm cells survive, you need millions to guarantee that one gets through.

Microscopic tests can tell whether your husband produces enough active male cells.

Inflammation around the neck of the womb whips up thick, heavy secretions which trap male cells. The doctor can treat this sticky problem. He can also remove any womb tumor that prevents nesting.

You'll probably have to take your temperature with an extra-accurate thermometer before getting out of bed each morning. This temperature drops and then rises the day the egg cell matures. This pinpoints your most fertile time.

If egg cells aren't maturing, your doctor may prescribe special hormones.

He'll inject carbon dioxide into the womb to spot clogged tubes which dam back female cells. Normally, the gas pours right in. If pressure builds, tubes are clogged.

This test sometimes cures. The pressure can actually ripen the blocked passage.

Germ-killing miracle drugs can cure infections which also stop up tubes. Your tubes may need plastic surgery.

You may find yourself expecting with tests barely under way. Facing up to this problem calms hidden worries and doubts. A mental block can be worse than a blocked tube.

Find out more. Send 25 cents to Public Affairs Pamphlets, 22 East 38th St., New York 16, N. Y., and request No. 309, "Why Can't You Have A Baby?"

Audiences Need To Be Retrained

By George Sokolsky

Lillian Hellman, writing in "Esquire," says that the Broadway theater is a bore. Miss Hellman has written some remarkable plays herself. "The Little Foxes" might have disgusted, but they did not bore. The same could be said, in another decade, of Ibsen's "Doll's House."

The theater is a bore because it has lost one: it is cheap. It is vulgar. Even when one enters the building, there is no tone, no temple-like illusion. There is no orchestra to play before the curtain rises. No hush, no hush. Just a hullabaloo like in a movie house, with hucksters shouting about cold drinks and hat-checks looking for a hat and coat to check.

One sits down and waits. It is difficult to look through the program in peace, particularly if it happens to be a benefit performance for which the charge for the ticket is enormous, so that the peculiar and particular charity can get some money.

As soon as the curtain goes up, in come the late ones. Of course, they would want their money back, and loudly too, if they were required to stand in back until the last act is over. I once thought it would be a smart if a spotlight were focussed on the late-comers, but that was a mistake; they would enjoy the spotlight.

So it is a musical — a loud, noisy musical with the music written like some art is painted — if you understand it, you are a self-proclaimed dope. A musical consists of two acts usually: the first act is the beginning; the second act is the end. It is true that such musicals as "Music Man," "My Fair Lady" and "Oklahoma" have substance and structure. But they are exceptions. The public wants it swift, meaningless, and loud — Oh! How loud! Give the public what it wants. We are still waiting for a "Merry Widow."

Miss Hellman makes the point that in the 1920's, the theater had great writers. Surely in the 1930's and 1940's, we had even greater writers. The American theater has degenerated. The writers are a response to public demand.

Watch the faces when a pretty girl ends the second act with a dirty word! You would imagine the audience would be tired of the theater sounding like a bar-room, but apparently the women customers like it. I watch their faces; yes, it is the women who get the big thrill. They would, in this generation, regard Maude Adams as a square.

Miss Hellman says: "... I think our preoccupation with 'love' and 'aloneness' comes straight out of ten-cent-store Freud. Love is a very large theme and unless writers can do it big, they should leave it alone. ..."

There is much wisdom in this, particularly in the current conception of love, which is really a misconception of the relationship of love, that can be loyalty, charity, adoration, with physical sex that can sometimes be an ugly expression of irresponsible responses to extravagant stimuli. Perhaps because Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw understood love, they come back year after year and are always box-office. They grasped more than the onlooker can ever experience and therefore set up a yearning that cannot be assuaged. Ibsen, to a degree, possessed this gift but he was more emotional than intellectual.

The current exaggeration of sex, even in the most serious atmosphere, is an extravagance of a luxurious age which must lessen as we become aware of our more serious problems. Time after time, one hears in the lobby: "So what did they prove?" The fact is that the composite authors of current plays usually do not seek to prove anything. They prefer to provide an evening's entertainment, even if to do so, they put the orchestra on the stage as an extravaganza. After all, that is all that Minsky tried to do in his burlesque — to provide an evening's entertainment.

Audiences, in this country, need to be retrained. The theater is not a movie house. Maybe Roxie could do it better, but the theater is a temple and the opera is the Holy of Holies of art. In many opera houses, the doors are closed during the overture. Recently I witnessed the new mounting of "Die Meistersinger," a perfection of all the arts, music, dance, painting, sculpture, lighting, and folks walking in and out, using their feet like dragons. It is the audience that gets what it wants.

Dear Sir:

On the evening of Nov. 15 an advertisement of a movie at a local drive-in appeared in The Herald — a family newspaper.

Now I feel — without going any further — readers know what I am objecting to.

My husband and I would not pay to see such trash and certainly no parents would want their teenagers to see it — especially at a drive-in.

It is a shame that a town the size of ours can not afford a movie house. We can go out of town to a movie — but what about these teenagers? Do we want them on the highway at all hours traveling to distant cities for their dates?

That seems to be the only solution for now, so would it be possible to run the ads of the up-town Columbus theaters?

I have a question to ask the people of Pickaway County concerning the Berger Hospital Levy — especially the ones who voted "yes."

Why should it be up to the property owners alone to pay for the levy? Everyone benefits so why shouldn't everyone pay?

It's just like these new high schools that are being built? Who pays for them? Property owners do of course.

What makes people think that our pay checks go any farther than the people who rent or the people who live in house trailers?

Why couldn't a tax be put on the head of a family and exempt those who are on pensions and relief? This way the expense wouldn't fall entirely on property owners.

Young married couples starting a family and trying to buy a home can only stand so much. Older people with limited incomes are in the same boat.

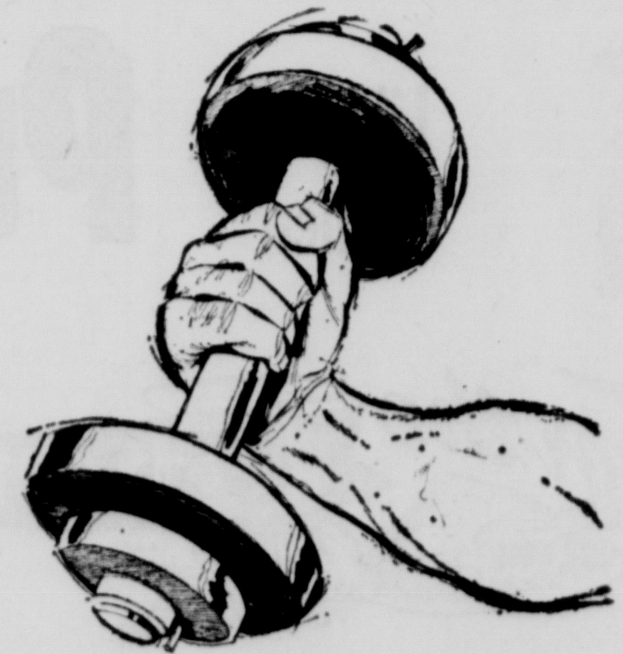

Students and young people working at home have no idea of the expenses that occur after a couple marries, starts a family and buys a home. I was told but didn't believe until I was married 20 months ago.

Until someone comes up with a different means of taxation, I'll continue to vote "no." We, as property owners have too much riding on our shoulders as it is.

Korean Police Busy

The military junta headed by Gen. Chung Hee Park in Korea has countered a period of letdown with a 15-day cycle of arrests. In what was classed as an "anti-crime" movement, 13,749 persons were caught in police nets.

Following a currency reform the regime clamped on import controls seeking to halt the outflow of scarce reserves. This applied to luxury items such as coffee, or cigarettes which Korea can produce from its own tobacco, foreign made clothing and other items not government approved.

A natural follow-up to improvement in the monetary system was availability of funds for scarce items. A black market sequence followed, but recent arrests have applied a damper to that risky business.

Another stringent enforcement is traffic control. Koreans, like other Asians, disregard traffic lights or intersection rules. Death and injury rates are high. Animal and human drawn carts compete with other vehicles for right-of-way. Arrests are designed to educate the public.

A new custom is using prisoners for road work instead of letting them rest idly in jail. The program may be rough but it is teaching respect for law.

Astounding Tokyo Record

Tokyo, the world's largest city, with a population of more than 10 million, reports that it had only 7,797 fires in 1961. New York City had 61,644 fires last year, more than twice as many as the combined total for Tokyo, London and Paris.

The Tokyo record is astounding, especially when one considers the density of its population and the claustrophobia - inducing qualities of some of its residential districts, but more astounding is the record of Japan's fifth largest city, Kyoto, which, although it has a population of 1.3 million, reported only 394 fires in 1961.

There must be some logical explanation for Kyoto's amazing fire prevention record, and there is. Five years ago, the fire department there organized a "fire bureau" to facilitate fire prevention, and since that time fires have decreased from 756 in 1955 to the present total.

Apparently this fire bureau works 24 hours each day drumming into citizens all the accepted fire prevention rules and urging them to cooperate with their neighbors in putting out minor blazes which, if unchecked, could grow into damaging fires.

Obviously the fact that arson is considered as serious a crime as murder in Japan plays a major role in fire prevention in that country, and so does the knowledge that the law takes a grave view of fires caused by carelessness.

Nevertheless, a public which has been taught how to prevent fires and how to extinguish minor blazes should receive the major portion of credit.

Oldster Marriages Are Plentiful

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

There are about 35,000 U.S. marriages each year with one or both partners 65 or older.

The older they are, the more likely they are to choose younger mates. Among bridegrooms in the 75-and-up bracket, 12 per cent picked brides at least 25 years younger; 18 per cent of brides in the same age group wed men 10 or more years younger.

It's against the law in the Sudan to send leeches through the mails.

Researchers have discovered that the tears a woman sheds when emotionally upset they chemically differ from those she weeps while peeling onions.

The New York Telephone Co. reports some novel uses for its massive Manhattan directory, which runs to nearly 1,800 pages. A young baseball catcher threatened rope through one and employed it as a chest protector. A South American banana firm bought old directories to bullet-proof its trucks.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—A whole way of life is involved in the plan to cut taxes and reform the system. And that's likely to complicate action in the next Congress far beyond the simple popular slogan of lower rates and fewer loopholes.

An entire generation of business executives and countless other individuals are addicted to what is known as half-price thinking. Many products and programs seem to cost only half of what the ticket says because of the tax saving. Or, the other way around, many seeming advantages or rewards are worth only half what they promise because of the extra tax liability.

For one example, charitable organizations know that much of the gifts from corporations are tinted by the knowledge that if it wasn't given, taxes would take half of it anyway. Some charities are wondering today if their income will drop if tax rates do.

Or, the other side of the coin, many with executive skills know that a better paying job will not only a part of its face value. In the higher tax bracket a large part of the raise will melt away.

Critics of the present high tax rates argue that often it doesn't seem worth the effort to try to produce more and earn more. Or, those at the top turn to other forms of compensation—stock options, company bought insurance, salary payments deferred till after retirement.

And the tax laws are now so complicated, especially at the corporate level, that perhaps 100,000 tax specialists work full time tackling others' problems.

Corporations also hire executives and countless clerks to handle the many official forms and seek out the most advantageous approach.

Avoidance of taxes is an art in itself, both for corporations and for individuals. Many business brains that might be concentrated on earning more income are occupied in trying to save on taxes. Business and individuals often find they're ahead this way in the long run.

Advocates of tax cuts and simplification say that the general economy suffers as a result.

Economists at the First National City Bank of New York put it

this way: "In high brackets, extra work is no longer worthwhile. Our punitive tax rates have led to the enactment of countless special relief laws and made them costly and difficult to administer and obey."

Morgan Guaranty economists add that half-price thinking has played a part in the wage-price spiral of inflation since World War II, since companies have felt that half of the wage increase would go for taxes otherwise and so haven't tried, until lately, to halt the spiral.

Half-price thinking also affects the manner of financing business expansion. Instead of offering new stocks many companies have relied on borrowing money. Interest payments are charged off before taxes, and thus seem half-price. Stockholders expect dividends, but these are paid out of a company's profits after tax net income, and thus seem full-price.

So, there's more to tax rates and systems than just the pain of filling out tax forms and getting up the payments.

In 1918 President Woodrow Wilson set aside an Alaskan valley and adjacent areas as the Katmai National Monument. Its highest peak, formerly called Knife Peak, was renamed Mt. Griggs in 1959 in honor of botanist Robert F. Griggs, who brought it to the nation's attention.

Try and Stop Me

A VERY PRETTY girl was accused of shoplifting. At her trial, her lawyer instructed her to burst into tears every time he thumped the table. She was doing just fine, until a moment when the lawyer banged the table by accident. Her sobs puzzled the judge, who demanded, "What's bothering you now?"

Still weeping, the defendant explained, "My lawyer told me I should weep every time he hit the table." The court room resounded with laughter, but the girl's lawyer turned defeat into victory. "Gentlemen of the jury," he proclaimed, "how can you reconcile the idea of crime with such childish innocence and naivete?" And, by golly, the jury found her not guilty.

A shiny new quarter slipped out of Mike Breslau's hand, and rolled clear across the floor and under his bed. "Despite all the economists," pointed out Monsieur Breslau, "you can see for yourselves that money goes as far as it ever did."

The defendant in a big fraud case showed signs of panic on the witness stand. His high-priced lawyer, seeking to restore his confidence, told him in a stage whisper, "Take it easy, man. All you've got to do is tell the jury, in my words, exactly what happened!"

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.
You want a baby, but you can't seem to have one. What should you do?

Both you and your husband should consult a woman's specialist (gynecologist) or a special fertility clinic.

To have a baby an egg cell must mature and wander down the tube towards the womb. Meanwhile, a male sperm cell has to fight its way through the womb up into the tube.

It must fertilize the female cell within 24 hours. Then the fertilized cell drifts down and nests in the womb wall.

Because so few sperm cells survive, you need millions to guarantee that one gets through.

Microscopic tests can tell whether your husband produces enough active male cells.

Inflammation around the neck of the womb whips up thick, heavy secretions which trap male cells. The doctor can treat this sticky problem. He can also remove any womb tumor that prevents nesting.

You'll probably have to take your temperature with an extra-accurate thermometer before getting out of bed each morning. This temperature drops and then rises the day the egg cell matures. This pinpoints your most fertile time. If egg cells aren't maturing, your doctor may prescribe special hormones.

He'll inject carbon dioxide into the womb to spot clogged tubes which dam back female cells. Normally, the gas pours right in. If pressure builds, tubes are clogged.

This test sometimes cures. The pressure can actually open the blocked passage.

Germ-killing miracle drugs can cure infections which also stop up tubes. Your tubes may need plastic surgery.

You may find yourself expecting with tests barely under way. Facing up to this problem calms hidden worries and doubts. A mental block can be worse than a blocked tube.

Audiences Need To Be Retrained

By George Sokolsky

Lillian Hellman, writing in "Esquire," says that the Broadway theater is a bore. Miss Hellman has written some remarkable plays herself. "The Little Foxes" might have disgusted, but they did not bore. The same could be said, in another decade, of Ibsen's "Doll's House."

The theater is a bore because it has lost one: it is cheap. It is vulgar. Even when one enters the building, there is no tone, no temple-like illusion. There is no orchestra to play before the curtain rises. No hush, no hush. Just a hullabaloo like in a movie house, with hucksters shouting about cold drinks and hat-checks looking for a hat and coat to check.

One sits down and waits. It is difficult to look through the program in peace, particularly if it happens to be a benefit performance for which the charge for the ticket is enormous, so that the peculiar and particular charity can get some money.

As soon as the curtain goes up, in come the late ones. Of course, they would want their money back, and loudly too, if they were required to stand in back until the last act is over. I once thought it would be a smart if a spotlight were focussed on the late-comers, but that was a mistake; they would enjoy the spotlight.

So it is a musical — a loud, noisy musical with the music written like some art is painted — if you understand it, you are a self-proclaimed dope. A musical consists of two acts usually: the first act is the beginning; the second act is the end. It is true that such musicals as "Music Man," "My Fair Lady" and "Oklahoma" have substance and structure. But they are exceptions. The public wants it swift, meaningless, and loud — Oh! How loud! Give the public what it wants. We are still waiting for a "Merry Widow."

Miss Hellman makes the point that in the 1920's, the theater had great writers. Surely in the 1900's and 1910's, we had even greater writers. The American theater has degenerated. The writers are a response to public demand.

Watch the faces when a pretty girl ends the second act with a dirty word! You would imagine the audience would be tired of the theater sounding like a bar-room, but apparently the women customers like it. I watch their faces; yes, it is the women who get the big thrill. They would, in this generation, regard Maude Adams as a square.

TODAY In History

Today is Monday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1962. There are 42 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this day in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation requiring all enemy aliens in the United States to register. They were banned from all waters within three miles of the shoreline except public ferries. They also were barred from the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone.

On this day:
In 1493, Christopher Columbus landed on the western shore of Puerto Rico and named it San Juan Batista.

In 1776, Lord Cornwallis and 10,000 British and Hessian troops invaded New Jersey's Bergen County at Closter Dock.

In 1863, Abraham Lincoln delivered the immortal Gettysburg Address.

In 1941, British troops launched a surprise offensive in Libya and advanced along a 150-mile front during World War II.

In 1944, U.S. warships bombarded the Pacific outpost of Iwo Jima.

Today's birthdays:
Former major league baseball star Roy Campanella is 41. Actor Alan Young is 43.

Thought for today:
Animals are such agreeable friends—they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms—George Eliot.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Temperatures dipped into the middle 20s over the northwest while holding in the 30s over the rest of Ohio early today. Toledo and Findlay had 25, Columbus 31 and Zanesville and Cincinnati 36. Dry, chilly weather is indicated for all sections today with periods of sunshine over the north and central counties.

The morning weather map shows high pressure covering a large section from the middle Mississippi Valley to the middle Valley and along the Canadian border of Montana.

The two low pressure systems are traveling eastward, spreading rain through the southern Great Plains and snow in the central Plains states. The mixture is expected to reach Ohio Tuesday.

Temperatures are expected to be above freezing when the precipitation starts Tuesday, and present indications are that whatever snow comes this way will melt upon reaching the ground.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average near normal. Normal high 47-53, normal low 31-34. Minor day-to-day temperature changes. Precipitation will average about one-inch in rain or snow beginning Tuesday and Wednesday, again about Saturday.

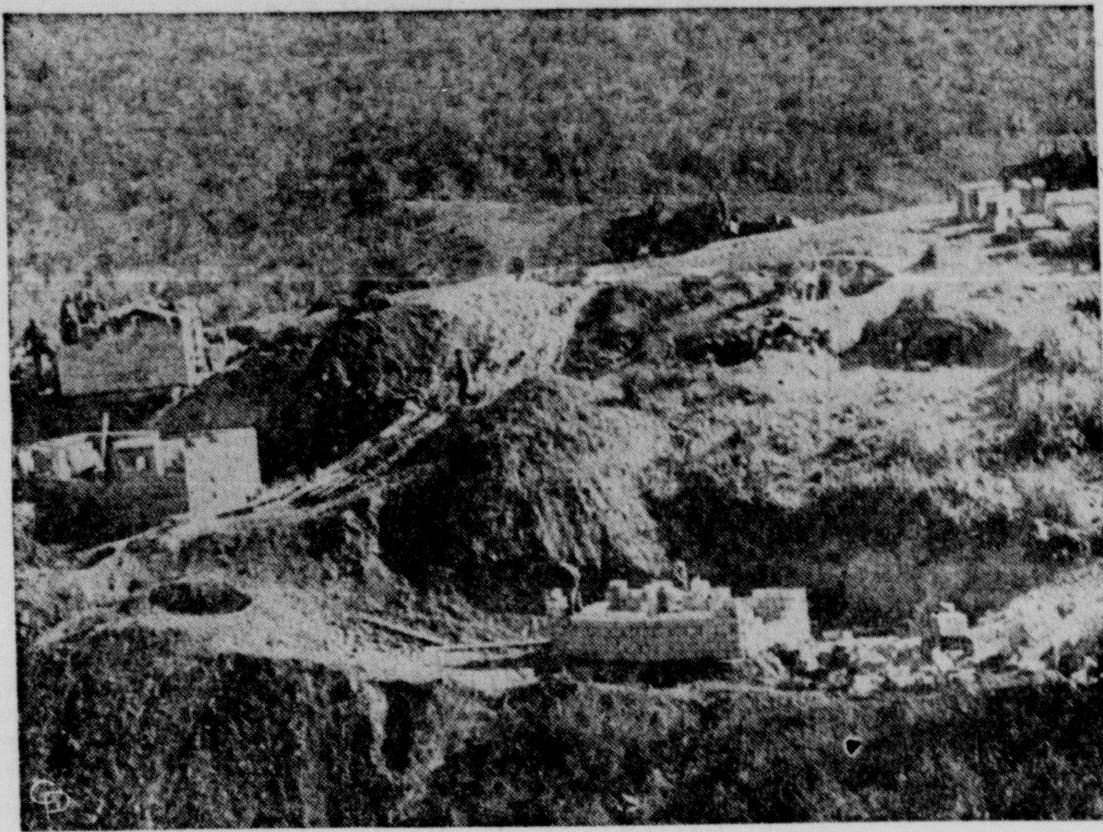

NORTHERN OHIO — Generally cloudy skies and minor day-to-day temperature changes. Temperatures will average one to three degrees below normal. Normal high 45-48, normal low, 29-33. Rainfall will average about one-half inch melted in a few showers or snow flurries Tuesday, more frequent through mid-week, developing again end of week.

Famous OSU Marching Band Doesn't Have 76 Trombones

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The marching band, which has almost as many fans as the football team at Ohio State University, is an anachronism among marching bands.

It does not have 76 trombones. It doesn't even have one trombone. Nor does it have a saxophone nor a clarinet nor any woodwind instrument at all.

What it does have is 144 spirited players who keep up some of the oldest band traditions as the only large college all-brass marching band in the country — and who also manage to keep the spectators in their seats during half-time intermissions.

Instead of the slide trombone, the Ohio State Marching Band uses a valve trombone. In the early days of the band it was felt the slides would get in the way as the bandmen swung and strutted into routines. The trombone has become a tradition and present director Jack Evans believes the marching band should be strong on tradition — particularly if there is a good reason for it.

Take the matter of woodwinds. At first they were not included because it was felt there was more volume in the brass instruments and because bands traditionally were all brass. But Director Evans says there's a more practical reason, the woodwinds' sensitivity to weather. At Ohio State football and band music is an all-weather sport.

Also traditionally, the marching band is an all-male band. And at Ohio State there are no women players nor female baton twirlers. But in a practical vein, Evans says it prevents the guilt feelings he might have about "chewing out" a band with women members.

The baton twirling is limited to one drum major—this year Ben Klein.

There are no marching band scholarships at Ohio State, no recruitment programs and no posts are guaranteed from one year to the next. Yet, Evans said, there never are enough posts for all the applicants, including former bandmen who must re-audition each year. Of the 144 members, 120 are on the field and 24 serve as alternates.

"Ohio is a strong high school band state," Evans explained, "and since this university is the largest in the state, it apparently holds a certain amount of glamour for youngsters. Many youths have early ambitions of playing with this marching band. Although many fall by the wayside, there still are enough to keep the band going."

Ohio State's bandmen are selected on the basis of musical auditions. Then they are taught the formations and dance routines. Evans said it is the rare musician who must be dropped because he can not learn the steps.

The most difficult part of presenting a half-time show is finding central themes. With these in tow, usually connected to a commemorative or current event, the problem becomes more mathematical than musical, Evans explained.

The staff uses a miniature football field and wooden pegs, designed in scale to the "average" man, to devise the picture as seen by the spectator in the uppermost stands.

The problem entails centering the drums and bass sections for sound. It also means trying to make sure the player at the top of one formation does not have to run the width of the gridiron to the bottom of the next formation. This does not always work out for the drum and bass players who have the sound-centering problem.

Of all the marching band routines, the one that gives probably the strongest tug to the heartstrings of alumni and students is the Script Ohio. The Script — a "handwriting" design of O-H-I-O — is unusual and traditional.

The Script spacing is unique in that by the time the formation has changed from a "block" to the script, each member of the band has traveled through every letter—and the tuba player dots the "I".

Pinkeye

Q. Is pinkeye exactly the same as conjunctivitis? Is pinkeye contagious and what is the proper cure?

A. The word "conjunctivitis" means inflammation of the conjunctiva—the delicate membrane covering the eye and lining the inside of the eyelids. Pinkeye is acute, contagious conjunctivitis, or conjunctivitis due to a specific infectious agent. Pinkeye is contagious as long as the infection is present. There are no effective home remedies for pinkeye so see your doctor at once.

TODAY In History

Today is Monday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1962. There are 42 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation requiring all enemy aliens in the United States to register. They were banned from all waters within three miles of the shoreline except public ferries. They also were barred from the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone.

On this day: In 1493, Christopher Columbus landed on the western shore of Puerto Rico and named it San Juan Batista.

In 1776, Lord Cornwallis and 10,000 British and Hessian troops invaded New Jersey's Bergen County at Closter Dock.

In 1863, Abraham Lincoln delivered the immortal Gettysburg Address.

In 1941, British troops launched a surprise offensive in Libya and advanced along a 150-mile front during World War II.

In 1944, U.S. warships bombarded the Pacific outpost of Iwo Jima.

Today's birthdays: Former major league baseball star Roy Campanella is 41. Actor Alan Young is 43.

Thought for today: Animals are such agreeable friends—they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms—George Eliot.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Temperatures dipped into the middle 20s over the northwest while holding in the 30s over the rest of Ohio early today. Toledo and Findlay had 25, Columbus 31 and Zanesville and Cincinnati 36. Dry, chilly weather is indicated for all sections today with periods of sunshine over the north and central counties.

The morning weather map shows high pressure covering a large section from the middle Mississippi Valley to the middle Valley and along the Canadian border of Montana.

The two low pressure systems are traveling eastward, spreading rain through the southern Great Plains and snow in the central Plains states. The mixture is expected to reach Ohio Tuesday.

Temperatures are expected to be above freezing when the precipitation starts Tuesday, and present indications are that whatever snow comes this way will melt upon reaching the ground.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO—Temperatures will average near normal. Normal high 47-53, normal low 31-34. Minor day-to-day temperature changes. Precipitation will average about one-inch in rain or snow beginning Tuesday and Wednesday, again about Saturday.

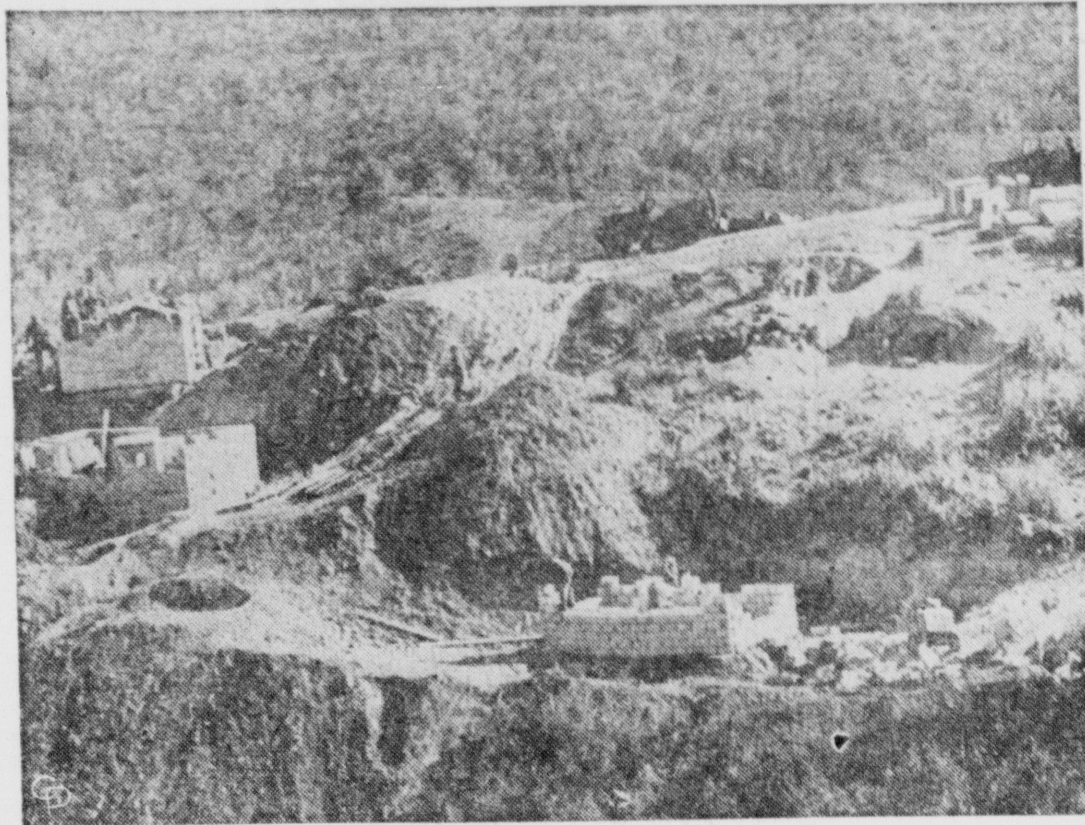

NORTHERN OHIO—Generally cloudy skies and minor day-to-day temperature changes. Temperatures will average one to three degrees below normal. Normal high 45-48, normal low 29-33. Rainfall will average about one-half inch melted in a few showers or snow flurries Tuesday, more frequent through mid-week, developing again end of week.

Altamaha No Ha Ha

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP)—Charles Hugh Smith took a trip up the Altamaha River in a homemade pontoon boat and came home by automobile.

He left the boat overturned in the river after encountering snakes dropping from tree limbs and rapids that finally caused him to abandon ship.

Left in the craft was a camera with proof that Smith had also encountered an alligator "at least 18 to 20 feet long."

Famous OSU Marching Band Doesn't Have 76 Trombones

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The marching band, which has almost as many fans as the football team at Ohio State University, is an anachronism among marching bands.

It does not have 76 trombones. It doesn't even have one trombone. Nor does it have a saxophone nor a clarinet nor any woodwind instrument at all.

What it does have is 144 spirited players who keep up some of the oldest band traditions as the only large college all-brass marching band in the country — and who also manage to keep the spectators in their seats during half-time intermissions.

Instead of the slide trombone, the Ohio State Marching Band uses a valve trombone. In the early days of the band it was felt the slides would get in the way as the bandsmen swung and strutted into routines. The trombone has become a tradition and present director Jack Evans believes the marching band should be strong on tradition — particularly if there is a good reason for it.

Take the matter of woodwinds. At first they were not included because it was felt there was more volume in the brass instruments and because bands traditionally were all brass. But Director Evans says there's a more practical reason, the woodwinds' sensitivity to weather. At Ohio State football and band music is an all-weather sport.

Also traditionally, the marching band is an all male band. And at Ohio State there are no women players nor female baton twirlers. But in a practical vein, Evans says it prevents the guilt feelings he might have about "chewing out" a band with women members.

The baton twirling is limited to one drum major—this year Ben Klein.

There are no marching band scholarships at Ohio State, no recruitment programs and no posts are guaranteed from one year to the next. Yet, Evans said, there never are enough posts for all the applicants, including former bandsmen who must re-audition each year. Of the 144 members, 120 are on the field and 24 serve as alternates.

"Ohio is a strong high school band state," Evans explained, "and since this university is the largest in the state, it apparently holds a certain amount of glamour for youngsters. Many youths have early ambitions of playing with this marching band. Although many fall by the wayside, there still are enough to keep the band going."

Ohio State's bandsmen are selected on the basis of musical auditions. Then they are taught the formations and dance routines. Evans said it is the rare musician who must be dropped because he can not learn the steps.

The most difficult part of presenting a halftime show is finding central themes. With these in tow, usually connected to a commemorative or current event, the problem becomes more mathematical than musical, Evans explained.

The staff uses a miniature football field and wooden pegs, designed in scale to the "average" man, to devise the picture as seen by the spectator in the uppermost stands.

The problem entails centering the drums and bass sections for sound. It also means trying to make sure the player at the top of one formation does not have to run the width of the gridiron to the bottom of the next formation. This does not always work out for the drum and bass players who have the sound-centering problem.

Of all the marching band routines, the one that gives probably the strongest tug to the heartstrings of alumni and students is the Script Ohio. The Script — a "handwriting" design of O-H-I-O — is unusual and traditional.

The Script spacing is unique in that by the time the formation has changed from a "block" to the script, each member of the band has traveled through every letter—and the tuba player dots the "I".

Nicholas Drive Kindergarten Parents Meet

Sixty parents of Nicholas Drive Kindergarten pupils met with Mrs. Ruth Snider, principal and Mrs. Jean Kelley, Kindergarten teacher, in the multi-purpose room of the school Thursday.

Mrs. Kelley discussed the Kindergarten program.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by the room mothers, Mrs. William Curtiss and Mrs. Herman Speakman. They were assisted by Mrs. Earl Palm, Mrs. Fred Redman, Mrs. Ben Brian and Mrs. Charles Jolliffe.

Refreshments were served.

Excuse Didn't Work

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—"It's your fault," the tardy second grader explained to his teacher. "You gave me so much homework last night, we missed the first movie and had to catch the last one."

City School Supt. W. H. Oliver said the teacher did not accept the youngster's explanation as an excuse for tardiness.

Save the bacon fat and use it for frying slices of mush cut from cooked cornmeal that's been refrigerated in a loaf pan. Use the standard recipe for cooking the cornmeal but dip the slices in flour before frying. When you cook bacon, do so over very low heat so the rendered fat will be white and suitable for frying.

When a recipe calls for 1-1/2 cups condensed milk, you'll find a 15-ounce can holds the equivalent. Remember that condensed milk is the sweetened variety.

Dash of Daring Spices Up Old Favorites

By ALICE DENHOFF
Daring is the virtue which characterizes all good cooks. As long as we have taste buds and tasting spoons, menu monotony needn't show its long, dull face at the dinner table.

Bright new flavors need not increase the food budget. In fact, seasoned dishes generally utilize less expensive ingredients. No need for the same old fried chicken if you prepare the following tasty delight.

SAVORY OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN

1 (2 1/2-lb.) frying chicken
1-3 c. flour
2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ground black pepper
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 tsp. onion powder
1/4 tsp. crumbled whole savory leaves
1 egg
1 tbsp. water
1/2 c. fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 c. butter, margarine or shortening

Cut chicken into quarters and coat with flour mixed with next 5 ingredients.
Dip in egg mixed with water; then coat with bread crumbs.
Melt fat in 6" x 10" x 2" baking pan in a 400 degrees F. oven. Place chicken pieces in pan, skin-side down.
Bake until chicken is tender, about 40 min., turning to brown both sides.

Serves 4 nicely.

VEAL AND HAM LOAF

2 c. ground cooked ham
2 c. uncooked ground veal
1 c. crushed corn flakes
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. thyme leaves
1 tsp. powdered mustard
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. instant minced onion
2 eggs, beaten
1 c. milk

Ham should be put through food chopper on medium blade.
Add veal, corn flakes and seasonings. Mix well.
Stir in eggs and milk.
Turn into greased 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan.

Bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 1/2 hrs., or until done.

MEAL-IN-ONE CASSEROLE

1 lb. ground chuck
1 tsp. bacon drippings
1/2 c. diced green peppers
1 (1-lb.) can tomatoes
1 c. drained whole kernel corn
1/2 c. cooked rice
1 tsp. chili powder
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1/2 c. shredded American cheese
Brown meat in bacon drippings. Add green peppers; stir and cook until limp.

Add next five ingredients. Heat thoroughly. Turn into buttered 1 1/2-qt. casserole.
Bake for 1 hr. or until browned on top in 350 degrees F. oven.

Berger Hospital Guild No. 20 will have their Thanksgiving dinner 6:30 p. m., Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Eugene Hanson, Ridgewood Drive.

ELECTRIC CURLER — Comes with three roller attachments and can be used to create a variety of coiffures quickly.

Modern Aids For Quick Hair Beauty

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Comedians are going to have to get some new material. They can no longer fall back on the weary old jokes about the way a wife looks when she hits the pillow with a head full of metal curlers.

In the first place, metal curlers have given way to plastic rollers. In the second place, no woman has to wear them to bed!

The hair dryer has changed the American scene — and for the better. Now a woman can wash and set her hair, then dry it in 30 minutes under an at-home hood and be a curlylocks at bedtime.

She can even look pretty while she's processing, for hair dryer hoods have gone as high fashion as hats. New ones are so fetchingly flower-decked they might well be worn for the Easter parade!

The case for hair dryers is well designed, too. It's a chic, small, travel-size beauty box that holds hose and hood.

In the case of one new dryer, there's also a buffer for polishing nails and a gadget that dries a manicure in minutes. A spot-drying attachment for heavy concentrations of hair is included, as is a perfumer that can be used to scent the hair while a setting dries.

But the hair dryer isn't the only piece of equipment designed for setting pretty! A smaller and less expensive gadget, available at notions counters, does an even quicker curling job.

It's what you might call a current version of the old-fashioned curling iron because it's electric.

It comes with roller attachments in three sizes (small, medium and large) and can be used to create bouffant, fluff, page boy and count-

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Dual Personalities!

DEAR ABBY: After 19 years of marriage, I finally hit my husband with the first thing I could get my hands on. It was a tea kettle and it caught him on the elbow. He's been using me as a human punching bag (and in front of the children) for years and I finally couldn't take it any more. If I had it coming, I wouldn't complain, but he hits me for things like rolling the car window up when he wants it down. If I did something he doesn't like, instead of telling me he just gives me a crack across the jaw. Was I wrong in throwing the kettle at him? He says a wife is not supposed to hit her husband back.

DEAR B AND B: A man who would repeatedly give his wife a crack across the jaw is sick. And a woman who would stick around for a repeat performance is sicker than the guy who hits her. Find a psychiatrist with two couches.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bank teller and I have a special depositor who comes to my window regularly with his deposit. My last name is TUCKER, and he has asked me several times if I knew where the expression, "all tucked out" originated. I have tried to find out and have exhausted my sources. Can you help me?

A TUCKERED-OUT TUCKER
DEAR TUCKERED-OUT: Now, I am also "tucked out" trying to run down the origin. Does anyone out there know?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to the home of neighbors for dinner. In the midst of the dinner my husband remarked how delicious the "chicken" was. Our host piped up and said it wasn't chicken—it was rabbit. My husband turned green and left the table. Later he came back and offered a rather feeble apology, saying he had a pet rabbit when he was a boy, and had never eaten rabbit before. Our friends were cool to us all evening. When we got home my husband told me never to take him anywhere unless we knew the people well enough to ask what they were serving. I told him rabbit never killed anybody and if he hadn't been told it was rabbit he'd have thought it was chicken. Who was right?

SMALL BATTLE

DEAR SMALL: Many people regard rabbit meat as a real treat—other can't even digest the thought of it. Don't subject your husband to another such experience (if you can help it). It's apparent that his prejudices are stronger than his stomach.

DEAR ABBY: That letter signed "BORN TO LOSE" from the "other woman" made my blood boil. You would think she was doing a noble thing to give up what wasn't hers in the first place. About 99 out of 100 girls who go with married men are "born to lose" because the men have no intention of breaking up their families for these tramps. I don't sit around and cry when I see the danger signals. I just go over to the "other woman's" house and pull her hair out.

Holiday Plans Discussed

The Kingston Woman's Society of Christian Service met recently in the Parish Hall. A Thanksgiving basket was planned and means of remembering shut-in members at Christmas were discussed.

Study was given by Mrs. Winston Hood who used a missionary film prepared by a Japanese minister on his work in Nishio, Japan. The theme was "You Are a Missionary Too."

Devotions were led by Mrs. D.H.

Birthdays Observed With Family Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Ankrom, 1400 S. Court St., were hosts Thursday evening for a family dinner. The event was in observance of the birthdays of John Ankrom and Ralph Ankrom.

Save the bacon fat and use it for frying slices of mush cut from cooked cornmeal that's been refrigerated in a loaf pan. Use the standard recipe for cooking the cornmeal but dip the slices in flour before frying. When you cook bacon, do so over very low heat so the rendered fat will be white and suitable for frying.

When a recipe calls for 1-3 cups condensed milk, you'll find a 15-ounce can holds the equivalent. Remember that condensed milk is the sweetened variety.

Dash of Daring Spices Up Old Favorites

By ALICE DENHOFF

Daring is the virtue which characterizes all good cooks. As long as we have taste buds and tastings spoons, menu monotony needn't show its long, dull face at the dinner table.

Bright new flavors need not increase the food budget. In fact, seasoned dishes generally utilize less expensive ingredients. No need for the same old fried chicken if you prepare the following tasty delight.

SAVORY OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN

1 (2½-lb.) frying chicken
1-3 c. flour
2 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. ground black pepper
¼ tsp. garlic powder
¼ tsp. onion powder
¼ tsp. crumbled whole savory leaves
1 egg
1 tbsp. water
½ c. fine dry bread crumbs
½ c. butter, margarine or shortening

Cut chicken into quarters and coat with flour mixed with next 5 ingredients.
Dip in egg mixed with water; then coat with bread crumbs.
Melt fat in 6" x 10" x 2" baking pan in a 400 degrees F. oven.
Place chicken pieces in pan, skin-side down.
Bake until chicken is tender, about 40 min., turning to brown both sides.
Serves 4 nicely.

VEAL AND HAM LOAF

2 c. ground cooked ham
2 c. uncooked ground veal
1 c. crushed corn flakes
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. thyme leaves
1 tsp. powdered mustard
¼ tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. instant minced onion
2 eggs, beaten
1 c. milk

Ham should be put through food chopper on medium blade.
Add veal, corn flakes and seasonings. Mix well.
Stir in eggs and milk.
Turn into greased 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan.
Bake at 350 degrees F. for 1¼ hrs., or until done.

MEAL-IN-ONE CASSEROLE

1 lb. ground chuck
1 tsp. bacon drippings
½ c. diced green peppers
1 (1-lb.) can tomatoes
1 c. drained whole kernel corn
½ c. cooked rice
1 tsp. chili powder
¼ tsp. black pepper
½ c. shredded American cheese
Brown meat in bacon drippings. Add green peppers; stir and cook until limp.
Add next five ingredients. Heat thoroughly. Turn into buttered 1½-qt. casserole.
Top with shredded cheese.
Bake for 1 hr. or until browned on top in 350 degrees F. oven.

When you're cooking spaghetti and want to keep the long strands unbroken, add them to a large kettle of boiling salted water. As the part of the strands under water soften, you'll be able to push in the other ends.

ELECTRIC CURLER — Comes with three roller attachments and can be used to create a variety of coiffures quickly.

Modern Aids For Quick Hair Beauty

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Comedians are going to have to get some new material. They can no longer fall back on the weary old jokes about the way a wife looks when she hits the pillow with a head full of metal curlers.

In the first place, metal curlers have given way to plastic rollers. In the second place, no woman has to wear them to bed!

The hair dryer has changed the American scene — and for the better. Now a woman can wash and set her hair, then dry it in 30 fast minutes under an at-home hood and be a curlylocks at bedtime.

She can even look pretty while she's processing, for hair dryer hoods have gone as high fashion as hats. New ones are so fetchingly flower-decked they might well be worn for the Easter parade!

The case for hair dryers is well designed, too. It's a chic, small, travel-size beauty box that holds hose and hood.

In the case of one new dryer, there's also a buffer for polishing nails and a gadget that dries a manicure in minutes. A spot-drying attachment for heavy concentrations of hair is included, as is a perfumer that can be used to scent the hair while a setting dries.

But the hair dryer isn't the only piece of equipment designed for setting pretty! A smaller and less expensive gadget, available at notions counters, does an even quicker curling job.

It's what you might call a current version of the old-fashioned curling iron because it's electric.

It comes with roller attachments in three sizes (small, medium and large) and can be used to create bouffant, fluff, page boy and count-

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Dual Personalities!

DEAR ABBY: After 19 years of marriage, I finally hit my husband with the first thing I could get my hands on. It was a tea kettle and it caught him on the chin. He's been using me as a human punching bag (and in front of the children) for years and I finally couldn't take it any more. If I had it coming, I wouldn't complain, but he hits me for things like rolling the car window up when he wants it down. If I did something he doesn't like, instead of telling me he just gives me a crack across the jaw. Was I wrong in throwing the kettle at him? He says a wife is not supposed to hit her husband back.

BEATEN AND BRUISED
DEAR B AND B: A man who would repeatedly give his wife a crack across the jaw is sick. And a woman who would stick around for a repeat performance is sicker than the guy who hits her. Find a psychiatrist with two couches.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bank teller and I have a special depositor who comes to my window regularly with his deposit. My last name is TUCKER, and he has asked me several times if I knew where the expression, "all tucked out" originated. I have tried to find out and have exhausted my sources. Can you help me?

A TUCKERED-OUT TUCKER
DEAR TUCKERED OUT: Now, I am also "tucked out" trying to run down the origin. Does anyone out there know?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to the home of neighbors for dinner. In the midst of the dinner my husband remarked how delicious the "chicken" was. Our host piped up and said it wasn't chicken—it was rabbit. My husband turned green and left the table. Later he came back and offered a rather feeble apology, saying he had a pet rabbit when he was a boy, and had never eaten rabbit before. Our friends were cool to us all evening. When we got home my husband told me never to take him anywhere unless we knew the people well enough to ask what they were serving. I told him rabbit never killed anybody and if he hadn't been told it was rabbit he'd have thought it was chicken. Who was right?

SMALL BATTLE

DEAR SMALL: Many people regard rabbit meat as a real treat—other can't even digest the thought of it. Don't subject your husband to another such experience (if you can help it.) It's apparent that his prejudices are stronger than his stomach.

DEAR ABBY: That letter signed "BORN TO LOSE" from the "other woman" made my blood boil. You would think she was doing a noble thing to give up what wasn't hers in the first place. About 99 out of 100 girls who go with married men are "born to lose" because the men have no intention of breaking up their families for these tramps. I don't sit around and cry when I see the danger signals. I just go over to the "other woman's" house and pull her hair out.

United States troops relieve Russian contingent in guard changing ceremony at Spandau.

Former Allies May Liquidate Spandau

By OMER ANDERSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

BERLIN — If the Soviets are serious about "liquidating the vestiges of the occupation regime in West Berlin", the pretext they used to justify dissolution of the four-power Kommandatura for Berlin, three Nazi ghosts — the Spandau prisoners — may soon be released.

The trio, literally the "living dead", are Rudolf Hess, 67, deputy Fuehrer to Hitler; Albert Speer, 54, armaments minister; and Baldur von Schirach, 53, Hitler's youth leader.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said that there is no hope of getting a Berlin agreement with the Russians at the moment, but that there are a "number of side issues which could be settled."

Spandau is first among these issues. It is not only a "vestige of the occupation regime in Berlin" so vexatious to the Soviets, it is a patent absurdity.

Indeed, everything about Spandau is absurd — not least in the fact that East and West continue teaming up smoothly at Spandau to run the War Crimes Prison as if nothing had happened since the four powers jointly established it in 1946.

Two things are staggering about Spandau: the size and expense of operating the establishment and the incredible (in the light of all that is happening in Berlin) four-power prison administration.

The three Nazi ghosts are housed in a red brick fortress built in 1860 as a Prussian military prison to house 660 prisoners. It is a three-story structure set in 15 acres of grounds and surrounded by a medieval moat and two stout heptagonal walls, protected by electrically charged wire.

A platoon of Allied troops guards the prison exterior. Inside there are 20 warders supplied by the four powers; 13 United Nations civilians who cook, clean, and wash for the prisoners; and 20 Germans who provide prison technical services but who may not, by prison regulations, come in contact with the prisoners.

Spandau's upkeep costs West Berlin $66,000 annually (Spandau is billed to the city as "occupation costs") and the U. S. Britain France and Russia each several times this amount for the troops and prison administrative personnel.

Absurdity or not, Spandau has continued to function as a model of East-West co-operation since 1946. East and West may verge on war (as during the 1948 blockade) but at Spandau all is serene.

Now as ever since 1946, the four powers rotate control of the prison administration monthly, with the U. S. relieving the Russians every fourth month.

The four powers, as part of the Spandau make-believe, still provide protection against a hypothetical effort at jail delivery, the power in charge ringing the prison with a heavily-armed guard platoon.

Hess, serving a life term, is either insane or faking insanity. Von Schirach and Speer are serving 20-year terms and due for release in 1966. Von Schirach has deteriorated mentally in prison. Only Speer is sharp and unchanged.

The Western Powers have been pressing the Soviets for several years to agree to closing Spandau and making other arrangements for the three prisoners. It is proposed that Hess be placed in a mental institution, Von Schirach given a medical parole, and Speer be placed in an ordinary German prison under four-power custody.

So far the Soviets have refused, presumably because they believe Spandau bolsters their propaganda about the danger of a Hitlerite revival in West Germany. But now the Soviets have painted themselves into a corner with their propaganda, and presumably they will agree to close Spandau.

Glenn Sees Space Sharing Importance

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—Emphasis on technology and space science should not overshadow other fields, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. said here at the dedication of a new high school named in his honor.

America's first orbiting astronaut told his home town Sunday, "I'm not trying to encourage every kid that's growing up to be an astronaut."

"The future holds promise not only in astronautics and space exploration, but we're going to have just as crying a need for great doctors and lawyers and farmers and any line that you want to go into that has contributed to the development of this country."

Glenn, who graduated from the old high school here in 1939, urged youth to develop a lively curiosity.

He said: "We would like to see graduates of this school who ask 'why and how.' I could only add one word and that would be 'go' because I think we need some drive to put them into practice."

About 2,000 attended the ceremony in the school's auditorium.

Pasture for Fire Trucks
WOODVILLE, Mass. (AP)—Old fire horses were retired to pasture — but what happens to old fire trucks?

Clarence Dewey Farrar, five truck manufacturer, says the old ones are not always junked.

Some are sold to small towns which cannot afford a new truck in the $15,000 to $32,000 range. Others are purchased by organizations which want them for parade purposes. Occasionally an individual will buy one for summer property protection.

The average life of a town fire truck, given good usage is about 20 years, Farrar says.

Economists Shelve Predictions of Recession

NEW YORK (AP)—Economists have taken another look at business prospects and some say the likelihood of a predicted early 1963 recession is fading.

Improved reports on the economic pace, highlighted by booming automobile sales, inspired optimism.

And Kennedy administration officials renewed their call for a substantial income tax cut next year, arguing that an expected $7.8 billion federal budget deficit should be no deterrent.

The stock market responded with some good gains for the third week in a row. Brokers said small investors—their lost confidence at least partially restored — were coming back into the market.

A poll of 45 economists and business leaders showed that nearly two-thirds believe there will be no recession through next year. Those who still expect a letdown feel it will be mild.

The surge of new car sales is giving the economy "a potent shot of confidence," said Byron J. Nichols, general manager of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division.

"It could be that what has been happening to the automobile industry in recent weeks is the tip-off that general business conditions ahead will be much better than any of us have been led to expect," he added.

Another industrialist, William H. Shaw, manager of business economics in Du Pont's Textile Fibers division, said that if there is a recession it will come later, rather than early next year. He looks for another quarter or two of hesitant expansion.

"The chances of avoiding recession in early 1963 look a little better now than they did four to six weeks ago," commented the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "This change mirrors not only the Cuban episode, which seems likely to produce some increase in both military and civil defense spending, but also a moderate brightening of business news."

The administration's announcement that it expected a budget deficit of $7.8 billion in this fiscal year—second highest in peacetime—was considered by some to have inflationary aspects.

The Budget Bureau said, however, that, "With the existing level of unemployment and unused plant capacity, the deficit is neither inflationary nor dangerous to our balance-of-payments position."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walter W. Heller, chief economic adviser to President Kennedy, asserted that the bigger than anticipated budget deficit should not be allowed to get in the way of a tax cut.

American travelers received some tax relief during the week when repeal of wartime transportation taxes became effective. It was estimated the savings would total $150 million a year.

All Eastern railroads added the 10 per cent tax on rail fares to their charges in an effort to improve their difficult profit positions. Southern and Western lines passed the savings on to their customers.

The 10 per cent tax on air fares was replaced by a five per cent "user charge" to aid in paying for airports, navigation aids and other government-financed facilities used by the airlines. None of the major airlines planned to raise fares.

New passenger car sales zoomed to a record of 217,861 for the first one-third of November, causing some manufacturers to increase their production schedules for this month.

To meet the demand, production during the week was held at the high rate of an estimated 163,000, just under the record for the year. The previous week's output was 165,032.

Improvement in steel production was another factor in making the outlook rosier. Output totaled 1,804,000 tons during the week, up 1.5 per cent from the previous week. Demand for steel was running about 1 per cent ahead of the October rate, and steel men attributed much of the gain to a heavier flow of orders from the automobile industry.

Stock sales during the week totaled 23,787,955 shares, up from the 17,413,545 of the previous week —which included election day — and the 21,900,250 of the comparable 1961 week. Bond sales amounted to $33,545,000 par value, compared with $21,098,000 the previous week and $34,443,000 for the comparable week last year.

The Labor Department reported the average wage of factory workers rose to a record $2.4 an hour in October and September. However, average weekly earnings in October slipped to $96.72, or 72 cents below the September level, because of an 18-minute drop in the average factory work week.

Pasture for Fire Trucks
WOODVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Old fire horses were retired to pasture — but what happens to old fire trucks?

Clarence Dewey Farrar, five truck manufacturer, says the old ones are not always junked.

Some are sold to small towns which cannot afford a new truck in the $15,000 to $32,000 range. Others are purchased by organizations which want them for parade purposes. Occasionally an individual will buy one for summer property protection.

The average life of a town fire truck, given good usage is about 20 years, Farrar says.

Economists Shelve Predictions of Recession

NEW YORK (AP)—Economists have taken another look at business prospects and some say the likelihood of a predicted early 1963 recession is fading.

Improved reports on the economic pace, highlighted by booming automobile sales, inspired optimism.

And Kennedy administration officials renewed their call for a substantial income tax cut next year, arguing that an expected $7.8 billion federal budget deficit should be no deterrent.

The stock market responded with some good gains for the third week in a row. Brokers said small investors—their lost confidence at least partially restored — were coming back into the market.

A poll of 45 economists and business leaders showed that nearly two-thirds believe there will be no recession through next year. Those who still expect a letdown feel it will be mild.

The surge of new car sales is giving the economy "a potent shot of confidence," said Byron J. Nichols, general manager of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division.

"It could be that what has been happening to the automobile industry in recent weeks is the tip-off that general business conditions ahead will be much better than any of us have been led to expect," he added.

Another industrialist, William H. Shaw, manager of business economics in Du Pont's Textile Fibers division, said that if there is a recession it will come later, rather than early next year. He looks for another quarter or two of hesitant expansion.

"The chances of avoiding recession in early 1963 look a little better now than they did four to six weeks ago," commented the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "This change mirrors not only the Cuban episode, which seems likely to produce some increase in both military and civil defense spending, but also a moderate brightening of business news."

The administration's announcement that it expected a budget deficit of $7.8 billion in this fiscal year—second highest in peacetime—was considered by some to have inflationary aspects.

The Budget Bureau said, however, that, "With the existing level of unemployment and unused plant capacity, the deficit is neither inflationary nor dangerous to our balance-of-payments position."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walter W. Heller, chief economic adviser to President Kennedy, asserted that the bigger than anticipated budget

Cincinnati Blue Law Enforcement Delayed

CINCINNATI (AP)—As far as violators of the state's Sunday closing law were concerned, law enforcement officers took the day off in Cincinnati and Hamilton County Sunday. Carl Meyer, chief sheriff's investigator, said no arrests will be made until county judges have disposed of the cases of six merchants who were cited Nov. 11.

deficit should not be allowed to get in the way of a tax cut.

American travelers received some tax relief during the week when repeal of wartime transportation taxes became effective. It was estimated the savings would total $150 million a year.

All Eastern railroads added the 10 per cent tax on rail fares to their charges in an effort to improve their difficult profit positions. Southern and Western lines passed the savings on to their customers.

The 10 per cent tax on air fares was replaced by a five per cent "user charge" to aid in paying for airports, navigation aids and other government-financed facilities used by the airlines. None of the major airlines planned to raise fares.

New passenger car sales zoomed

to a record of 217,861 for the first one-third of November, causing some manufacturers to increase their production schedules for this month.

To meet the demand, production during the week was held at the high rate of an estimated 163,000, just under the record for the year. The previous week's output was 165,032.

Improvement in steel production was another factor in making the outlook rosier. Output totaled 1,804,000 tons during the week, up 1.5 per cent from the previous week. Demand for steel was running about 1 per cent ahead of the October rate, and steel men attributed much of the gain to a heavier flow of orders from the automobile industry.

Stock sales during the week totaled 23,787,955 shares, up from the 17,413,545 of the previous week —which included election day — and the 21,900,250 of the comparable 1961 week. Bond sales amounted to $33,545,000 par value, compared with $21,098,000 the previous week and $34,443,000 for the comparable week last year.

The Labor Department reported the average wage of factory workers rose to a record $2.4 an hour in October and September. However, average weekly earnings in October slipped to $96.72, or 72 cents below the September level, because of an 18-minute drop in the average factory work week.

Kenya's Rustic Game Lodge New African Tourist Haunt

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

THE WORLD-FAMOUS Tree-tops Hotel in Kenya, famed for its visiting royalty, has a rival.

Twelve miles from Nanyuki and situated in a remote valley in the Mount Kenya Forest, the new Mount Kenya game lodge gives promise of achieving world-wide popularity at a critical time in Kenya's history. The enterprise reflects the faith in Kenya's future held by its "common man."

Shamsu Din, his fellow directors and a working team have rebuilt the Sportsman's Arms Hotel, an attractive and spacious game lodge 8,000 feet up in the forest mountains.

Mount Kenya game lodge is 8,000 feet up in the forest mountains.

Strolling along the cedar and bamboo arched track from the car park to the strong timber gangway leading to the entrance, one sees Mount Kenya's snowy peaks stabbing the cloud-dotted, deep blue East African sky.

It is possible to approach the lodge, built on sturdy cedar posts under the lip of the Ondari Valley, without being observed by the animals below.

The interior cannot fail to impress the average visitor expecting only the barest essentials. It is a forest hotel from which, even while eating on either of two long verandas, one may look down on a variety of animals drinking or bathing in a lake 200 feet long and 150 feet wide.

The bedrooms can accommodate 25 guests, with provisions for expansion later. Everything, from fire escapes to the inclusion of a ladies handbag rail around a semi-circular bamboo bar, has been taken into consideration.

The lodge is worth a visit if only to look at the scenery.

Animals turn up daily, mostly to feed and drink or lick the salt, and jostle with each other at the water's edge — to the alarm of the nightwatchman, recently seen peeping anxiously over the veranda rail, eyes rolling at a herd of some 200 elephants. But for the tourist seeking "something new," it's sheer delight.

Buffalo, too, are regular visitors, along with rhino, giant forest hog, reed, bush and water-duck, duiker, Colobus and Sykes' monkeys, baboon, leopard, a variety of birds and, occasionally, a rare bongo.

The site was discovered after months of exploration by Col. W. Rose-Smith, Indian army, retired. Many other sites were considered, but none fulfilled all the necessary requirements; namely, the locale must not clash with reforestation schemes, yet be away from human habitation.

There also had to be a permanent water supply, both for animals and visitors and possess ample natural salt licks; it had to be easily approachable and suitable for building a lodge at tree-top level and, most important of all, the location needed a regular and varied number of wild animals in the vicinity.

Returning to the Sportsman's Arms in late December, 1959, Colonel Rose-Smith announced he had found the ideal spot, tucked away in an obscure area remarkably simple to penetrate. However, like many of Mount Kenya's beauty spots and hideouts, it was possible to walk within yards of the hotel location and miss it altogether.

"That must be the secret valley I heard mention of when I first came to Nanyuki," said Shamsu Din.

Together they examined the site more closely. Several times, emerging from low bamboo tunnels, they came face to face with buffalo; and before reaching the site Shamsu Din found himself up a tree staring down at an angry bull elephant.

As the site had all the other attributes, the Kenya Industrial Development Corporation was approached to finance the erection of a lodge. The corporation agreed to invest several thousand pounds in the project provided the Sportsman's Arms itself was renovated.

Work started in January last year. A large game lodge has been built, the Sportsman's Arms restored, and the required staff employed.

Larry Wateridge, formerly warden of the Meru A.D.C. Game Reserve, agreed to act as white hunter and guide.

With the installation of the final furnishings, the Mount Kenya Game Lodge is today in a position to contribute to Kenya's economy, and to join with the nearby Mount Kenya Safari Club as one of the African nation's leading tourist attractions.

She Enjoys All of Her 103 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I've enjoyed life all along." That is how Mrs. Minerva Bushman Clark feels about the last 103 years.

Mrs. Clark, who celebrates her birthday today, says she did nothing special to account for her longevity.

"I can't imagine," she replied to the question centenarians have to answer birthday after birthday. "I was always good to the sick and my neighbors. I never thought about my age—just kept going."

A regular churchgoer who loved to sing, she also belonged to three ladies aid societies and "often entertained two of them at one time."

She kept up this pace long after her husband, the late William Clark of New Richmond, died. For years after that, she kept house for her son, Harry, a Clermont County farmer. In 1960 that she was persuaded to move in with a married daughter, Mrs. Georgie Clark Rardin, who lives in the Hyde Park section.

Mrs. Clark had eight children, three of them still living, besides four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Transylvania College, opened in Lexington, Ky., in 1780, is the oldest college west of the Alleghenies.

Two Local Women 'Adopt' Needy Children through CCF

Two members of the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma have something in common — they both "adopted" children from Dr. J. Calvitt Clarke, founder and international director of the Christian Children's Fund, Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Anna Brevard, Dunkel Road, helps support nine-year-old Chan Chee Suen in Hong Kong. And Percival Juriansz in Ceylon is the ten-year-old "adoptee" of Mrs. Lucille Scott 341 Northridge Road.

Mrs. Brevard's "adoptee" attends second grade classes at the CCF-supported Roof Top Project. Classes are held on the roof tops of buildings, the only available space left in crowded Hong Kong. Besides receiving an education, Chee Suen is given food, clothing and medical care.

This alert, intelligent little boy comes from a very poor family. His father's income as a street vender is so small he can barely feed his wife and four children.

CHEERFUL, active Percival the "adoptee" of Mrs. Scott, attends the first grade at the CCF-affiliated children's home in Colombo, Ceylon. The family had been left in very needy circumstances, when Percival's father died of a heart ailment.

His mother could not find regular employment and was dependent upon charity. When the education of Percival and his younger brother became a problem, they were brought to the children's home.

Christian Children's Fund is the largest organization of its type and presently assists more than 40,000 children. Dr. J. Calvitt Clarke and his wife, Helen, report that they always have more hungry children than sponsors. They have a long waiting list of orphanages requesting help and the orphanages in turn have waiting lists of children needing assistance.

Sponsors send $10 a month, or $20 a year toward the child's care, choosing a boy or a girl in any of the 54 countries, from above the Arctic Circle to below the Equator. They are encouraged to exchange letters and Christmas cards with their "adopted" child.

Many sponsors send gifts, provide for higher education, and in some cases, sponsors even take trips abroad to meet their "child".

The Clarkes were one of the first to use this unique "adoption" plan, back in 1938. Beginning by sending aid to one small orphanage in China, they found Americans eager to "adopt" homeless children. In 1962 alone, over $4,000,000 was contributed by supporters of Christian Children's Fund.

Christian Children's Fund is affiliated with 476 homes, representing 35 Protestant denominations. More than a relief agency, it gives children care in four areas: physical, mental, vocational, and religious. Christian Children's Fund superintendents try to develop children into well-adjusted, responsible citizens of their country.

PEOPLE In the News

President Kennedy urges that people everywhere "read the Bible in whatever version or translation they choose." In a message to the American Bible Society in New York, Kennedy said it is not enough that the Bible be translated, published and distributed. "It must also be read," he said.

Prince Albert de Ligne, uncle of the King of Belgium, and his wife were injured when their car skidded on a wet road and hit a tree in Orleans, France. Both were hospitalized, the prince with a broken left leg and the princess with face injuries.

Sir Osbert Sitwell, poet and novelist, reported the theft from his London home of three silver-point drawings by Pablo Picasso—drawings made with a silver-lead pencil. The drawings were valued at 600 pounds — $1,680 — each.

Pope John XXIII has been invited to visit the United States. Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, made the invitation when the Pope received in special audience all the U.S. bishops attending the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council at the Vatican.

Cardinal Spellman said Pope John had always wanted to see America, "but his reply was non-committal." No Pope has been outside Italy since Pius VII went to Paris in 1804 for Napoleon's coronation.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., and Benjamin A. Smith II, D-Mass., are in New Delhi on a three-day visit. Mansfield told reporters he carried no message from President Kennedy to India's Prime Minister Nehru. "We just came to talk with the ambassador (John Kenneth Galbraith) and look around," he said.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — This crisp and lovely autumn has been a time of death, fear, revolution, uncertainty and disillusionment for men and nations, stretching across seas and continents.

Death and disillusionment hit Asia. Swift and sudden revolution burst in the Middle East. There was uncertainty in Europe. Fear of war circled over Cuba and the world.

In India Prime Minister Nehru, who ducked reality in trying to play shrewd by playing neutral, talked in terms of brotherhood with the Red Chinese.

This autumn he had to watch almost helplessly as Chinese forces smashed across the Indian frontier killing Nehru's ill-equipped troops as they went, for reasons they haven't yet chosen to reveal.

As this is being written the bewildered prime minister doesn't know whether the Red armies will sweep down out of the mountains and across the plains of India.

He needed time to build a decent society out of the colossal poverty of India. If he didn't have to spend money on arms, he could use it for desperate peaceful needs of his country.

He thought the answer to time and money was in staying aloof from the contest between the West and communism. He even thought in the end Russia would save him from the Chinese. It didn't.

Now he finds the Communists used and abused him. Meanwhile, his people are dying under the Chinese guns. But even now, in his moment of Indian agony, while he cries for Western arms he still clings to neutralism.

In Yemen revolutionaries overthrew the king in a savage stroke which may be only the beginning of bloodshed in the Middle East if the kings of Jordan and Saudi Arabia, fearing their own future, move in.

In Europe Chancellor Adenauer's regime as shaky from the discontent of West Germans with his defense minister, Franz Josef Strauss, for the way he cracked down on his critics on the staff of a magazine, Der Spiegel.

In France, elections Sunday

seemed to strengthen the hand of president Charles de Gaulle who has been trying to strengthen the office he holds at the expense of Parliament and the French political party system which in the past has been erratic to the point of irresponsibility.

For one week after President Kennedy demanded the Russians get their missiles out of Cuba—or else—international jitters shook the world. If Russia refused, war could have come quickly.

Premier Khrushchev agreed to remove the weapons. Supposedly he has carted them off on ships. But this can't be positively known unless Cuba can be inspected. Fidel Castro refuses that.

Khrushchev left his bombers in Cuba. Kennedy said: Get them out, too. They wrote letters back and forth. Castro made demands of his own.

So Cuba isn't settled. It could get nasty. The West doesn't seem to know at this minute whether Khrushchev will turn Berlin into a time bomb by setting a new and quick deadline for settlement on that city.

This day a year ago hardly anything was happening except massacre in the Congo. That quieted down. It may blow wide open again.

GUANTAMO VIEW — A Cuban guard just outside Guantamo hides his face from the camera in a kind of "see no evil" maneuver.

School District Plans Another Special Poll

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—The Little Miami School District in northern Clermont County has called for a special election Dec. 11 in another effort to pass an eight mill operating levy. The levy was defeated in the general election and the school district has cut down on activities after 5:30 p.m. and school bus service as a result.

Kenya's Rustic Game Lodge New African Tourist Haunt

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

THE WORLD-FAMOUS Tree-tops Hotel in Kenya, famed for its visiting royalty, has a rival.

Twelve miles from Nanyuki and situated in a remote valley in the Mount Kenya Forest, the new Mount Kenya game lodge gives promise of achieving world-wide popularity at a critical time in Kenya's history. The enterprise reflects the faith in Kenya's future held by its "common man."

Shamsu Din, his fellow directors and a working team have rebuilt the Sportsman's Arms Hotel, an attractive and spacious game lodge 8,000 feet up in the forest mountains.

Strolling along the cedar and bamboo arched track from the car park to the strong timber gangway leading to the entrance, one sees Mount Kenya's snowy peaks stabbing the cloud-dotted, deep blue East African sky.

It is possible to approach the lodge, built on sturdy cedar posts under the lip of the Ondari Valley, without being observed by the animals below.

The interior cannot fail to impress the average visitor expecting only the barest essentials. It is a forest hotel from which, even while eating on either of two long verandas, one may look down on a variety of animals drinking or bathing in a lake 200 feet long and 150 feet wide.

The bedrooms can accommodate 25 guests, with provisions for expansion later. Everything, from fire escapes to the inclusion of a ladies handbag rail around a semi-circular bamboo bar, has been taken into consideration.

The lodge is worth a visit if only to look at the scenery.

Animals turn up daily, mostly to feed and drink or lick the salt, and jostle with each other at the water's edge — to the alarm of the nightwatchman, recently seen peeping anxiously over the veranda rail, eyes rolling at a herd of some 200 elephants. But for the tourist seeking "something new," it's sheer delight.

Buffalo, too, are regular visitors, along with rhino, giant forest hog, reed, bush and water-duck, duiker, Colobus and Sykes' monkeys, baboon, leopard, a variety of birds and, occasionally, a rare bongo.

The site was discovered after months of exploration by Col. W. Rose-Smith, Indian army, retired. Many other sites were considered, ed, but none fulfilled all the necessary requirements: namely, the locale must not clash with re-forestation schemes, yet be away from human habitation.

Mount Kenya game lodge is 8,000 feet up in the forest mountains.

There also had to be a permanent water supply, both for animals and visitors and possess ample natural salt licks; it had to be easily approachable and suitable for building a lodge at tree-top level and, most important of all, the location needed a regular and varied number of wild animals in the vicinity.

Returning to the Sportsman's Arms in late December, 1959, Colonel Rose-Smith announced he had found the ideal spot, tucked away in an obscure area remarkably simple to penetrate. However, like many of Mount Kenya's beauty spots and hideouts, it was possible to walk within yards of the hotel location and miss it altogether.

"That must be the secret valley I heard mention of when I first came to Nanyuki," said Shamsu Din.

Together they examined the site more closely. Several times, emerging from low bamboo tunnels, they came face to face with buffalo; and before reaching the site Shamsu Din found himself up a tree staring down at an angry bull elephant.

As the site had all the other attributes, the Kenya Industrial Development Corporation was approached to finance the erection of a lodge. The corporation agreed to invest several thousand pounds in the project provided the Sportsman's Arms itself was renovated.

Work started in January last year. A large game lodge has been built, the Sportsman's Arms restored, and the required staff employed.

Larry Wateridge, formerly warden of the Meru A.D.C. Game Reserve, agreed to act as white hunter and guide.

With the installation of the final furnishings, the Mount Kenya Game Lodge is today in a position to contribute to Kenya's economy, and to join with the nearby Mount Kenya Safari Club as one of the African nation's leading tourist attractions.

She Enjoys All of Her 103 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I've enjoyed life all along." That is how Mrs. Minerva Bushman Clark feels about the last 103 years.

Mrs. Clark, who celebrates her birthday today, says she did nothing special to account for her longevity.

"I can't imagine," she replied to the question centenarians have to answer birthday after birthday. "I was always good to the sick and my neighbors. I never thought about my age—just kept going."

A regular churchgoer who loved to sing, she also belonged to three ladies aid societies and "often entertained two of them at one time."

She kept up this pace long after her husband, the late William Clark of New Richmond, died. For years after that, she kept house for her son, Harry, a Clermont County farmer. In 1960 that she was persuaded to move in with a married daughter, Mrs. Georgie Clark Rardin, who lives in the Hyde Park section.

Mrs. Clark had eight children, three of them still living, besides four grandchildren and four Great-grandchildren.

Transylvania College, opened in Lexington, Ky., in 1780, is the oldest college west of the Alleghenies.

Two Local Women 'Adopt' Needy Children through CCF

Two members of the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma have something in common — they both "adopted" children from Dr. J. Calvitt Clarke, founder and international director of the Christian Children's Fund, Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Anna Brevard, Dunkel Road, helps support nine-year-old Chan Chee Suen in Hong Kong. And Percival Juriansz in Ceylon is the ten-year-old "adoptee" of Mrs. Lucille Scott 341 Northridge Road.

Mrs. Brevard's "adoptee" attends second grade classes at the CCF-supported Roof Top Project. Classes are held on the roof tops of buildings, the only available space left in crowded Hong Kong. Besides receiving an education, Chee Suen is given food, clothing and medical care.

This alert, intelligent little boy comes from a very poor family. His father's income as a street vender is so small he can barely feed his wife and four children.

CHEERFUL, active Percival the "adoptee" of Mrs. Scott, attends the first grade at the CCF-affiliated children's home in Colombo, Ceylon. The family had been left in very needy circumstances, when Percival's father died of a heart ailment.

His mother could not find regular employment and was dependent upon charity. When the education of Percival and his younger brother became a problem, they were brought to the children's home.

Christian Children's Fund is the largest organization of its type and presently assists more than 40,000 children. Dr. J. Calvitt Clarke and his wife, Helen, report that they always have more hungry children than sponsors. They have a long waiting list of orphanages requesting help and the orphanages in turn have waiting lists of children needing assistance.

Sponsors send $10 a month, or $120 a year toward the child's care, choosing a boy or a girl in any of the 54 countries, from above the Arctic Circle to below the Equator. They are encouraged to exchange letters and Christmas cards with their "adopted" child.

Many sponsors send gifts, provide for higher education, and in some cases, sponsors even take trips abroad to meet their "child".

The Clarkes were one of the first to use this unique "adoption" plan, back in 1938. Beginning by sending aid to one small orphanage in China, they found Americans eager to "adopt" homeless children. In 1962 alone, over $4,000,000 was contributed by supporters of Christian Children's Fund.

Christian Children's Fund is affiliated with 476 homes, representing 35 Protestant denominations. More than a relief agency, it gives children care in four areas: physical, mental, vocational, and religious. Christian Children's Fund superintendents try to develop children into well-adjusted, responsible citizens of their country.

PEOPLE In the News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Kennedy urges that people everywhere "read the Bible in whatever version or translation they choose." In a message to the American Bible Society in New York, Kennedy said it is not enough that the Bible be translated, published and distributed. "It must also be read," he said.

Prince Albert de Ligne, uncle of the King of Belgium, and his wife were injured when their car skidded on a wet road and hit a tree in Orleans, France. Both were hospitalized, the prince with a broken left leg and the princess with face injuries.

Sir Osbert Sitwell, poet and novelist, reported the theft from his London home of three silver-point drawings by Pablo Picasso—drawings made with a silver-lead pencil. The drawings were valued at 600 pounds — $1,680 — each.

Pope John XXIII has been invited to visit the United States. Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, made the invitation when the Pope received in special audience all the U.S. bishops attending the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council at the Vatican.

Cardinal Spellman said Pope John had always wanted to see America, "but his reply was non-committal." No Pope has been outside Italy since Pius VII went to Paris in 1804 for Napoleon's coronation.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., and Benjamin A. Smith II, D-Mass., are in New Delhi on a three-day visit. Mansfield told reporters he carried no message from President Kennedy to India's Prime Minister Nehru. "We just came to talk with the ambassador (John Kenneth Galbraith) and look around," he said.

Leontyne Price, noted Negro singer from the United States, will be among guest performers appearing this season at the La Scala Opera House in Milan, Italy. Igor Stravinsky, Russian-born composer now living in the United States, will be among the guest conductors.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — This crisp and lovely autumn has been a time of death, fear, revolution, uncertainty and disillusionment for men and nations, stretching across seas and continents.

Death and disillusionment hit Asia. Swift and sudden revolution burst in the Middle East. There was uncertainty in Europe. Fear of war circled over Cuba and the world.

In India Prime Minister Nehru, who ducked reality in trying to play shrewd by playing neutral, talked in terms of brotherhood with the Red Chinese.

This autumn he had to watch almost helplessly as Chinese forces smashed across the Indian frontier killing Nehru's ill-equipped troops as they went, for reasons they haven't yet chosen to reveal.

As this is being written the bewildered prime minister doesn't know whether the Red armies will sweep down out of the mountains and across the plains of India.

He needed time to build a decent society out of the colossal poverty of India. If he didn't have to spend money on arms, he could use it for desperate peaceful needs of his country.

He thought the answer to time and money was in staying aloof from the contest between the West and communism. He even thought in the end Russia would save him from the Chinese. It didn't.

Now he finds the Communists used and abused him. Meanwhile, his people are dying under the Chinese guns. But even now, in his moment of Indian agony, while he cries for Western arms he still clings to neutralism.

In Yemen revolutionists overthrew the king in a savage stroke which may be only the beginning on bloodshed in the Middle East if the kings of Jordan and Saudi Arabia, fearing their own future, move in.

In Europe Chancellor Adenauer's regime as shaky from the discontent of West Germans with his defense minister, Franz Josef Strauss, for the way he cracked down on his critics on the staff of a magazine, Der Spiegel.

In France, elections Sunday

seemed to strengthen the hand of president Charles de Gaulle who has been trying to strengthen the office he holds at the expense of Parliament and the French political party system which in the past has been erratic to the point of irresponsibility.

For one week after President Kennedy demanded the Russians get their missiles out of Cuba—or else—international jitters shook the world. If Russia refused, war could have come quickly.

Premier Khrushchev agreed to remove the weapons. Supposedly he has carted them off on ships. But this can't be positively known unless Cuba can be inspected. Fidel Castro refuses that.

Khrushchev left his bombers in Cuba. Kennedy said: Get them out, too. They wrote letters back and forth. Castro made demands of his own.

So Cuba isn't settled. It could get nasty. The West doesn't seem to know at this minute whether Khrushchev will turn Berlin into a time bomb by setting a new and quick deadline for settlement on that city.

This day a year ago hardly anything was happening except massacre in the Congo. That quieted down. It may blow wide open again.

Stocks Rack Up Another Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolstered by favorable economic news and forecasts, the stock market last week took two mildly declining sessions in stride and rang up its third consecutive weekly advance. Profit-taking from the sustained climb wasn't strong enough to dent the surge.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 14.85 for the week to 630.98, exceeding its gain of the previous week.

Some brokers had looked for a corrective reaction which they considered only natural in the face of the three-week advance. However, the market's performance prompted one investment analyst to say:

"The intermediate trend of the market is higher subject to minor setbacks."

Motors took a prominent part in leading the week's advance. They were in demand because of record new car sales in the first 19 days of November and a forecast that the good 1962 model year will be followed by another in 1963.

Aerospace issues were active and fairly strong, too, on expectations that defense spending will be increased to contend with international crisis.

Some economists revised their earlier predictions and said the likelihood of a recession early in 1963 is fading.

The Kennedy administration estimated the budget deficit for the current fiscal year at $7.8 billion, a figure which some Wall Street sources considered inflationary.

Increased demand for steel, mainly due to orders from the booming automobile industry, was another favorable factor.

The market pulled a surprise Monday, rolling up a sharp advance in heavy trading of slightly more than 5 million shares. Because of semi-holiday conditions in Wall Street due to Veterans Day, a quiet market had been expected.

Profit-taking interrupted the advance Tuesday but the loss was small. The market resumed its strong rise Wednesday and volume again exceeded 5 million shares. It fell into an irregular decline Thursday in another 5-million share session. On Friday a moderate gain was scored.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 5.9 to 233.1 during the week.

Volume for the week totaled 23,787,955 shares against 17,413,545 the prior week.

Fledgling Defensive Back Keeps Packers on Win List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's not Jim Taylor, Bart Starr or Paul Hornung who wears the hero tag today in Green Bay. A young defensive back named Herb Adderley has played Mr. Clutch for the second time this year to keep the Packers' championship express highballing at record-making speed into their crucial Thanksgiving Day clash with the Detroit Lions.

Adderley broke the backs of the ambitious Baltimore Colts three times Sunday and shrugged off a close call with the tag of "goat" as Green Bay rolled to its 10th straight 1962 victory, and 18th in all competition since last year, with a 17-13 win.

The Michigan State grade, who was the Packers' No. 1 draft choice two years ago, joined four lesser lights, three of them field goal specialists, in other National Football League victor-making performances.

Don Chandler kicked four field goals for the Eastern Conference-leading New York Giants in a 19-14 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. Pittsburgh's Lou Michaels booted his third of the game with 13 seconds to play in the Steelers' 23-21 victory over the Washington Redskins. The Chicago Bears' Roger Leclerc hit one from 12 yards out in the last 31 seconds for a 34-33 win against the Dallas Cowboys.

Quarterback Earl Morrall came off the bench in the second half and fired the Lions to a 17-6 win against the Minnesota Vikings. In other games, Cleveland rolled over St. Louis 38-14 and the San Francisco 49ers defeated Los Angeles 24-17.

Baltimore (5-5) and the Lions (8-2) are both members of the "I remember Adderley club." Against the Lions last month, he intercepted a Milt Plum pass in the final minute and set up Hornung's game-winning field goal.

Sunday against the Colts, he ran back a kickoff 103 yards for a touchdown in the first period following Dick Bielski's field goal. Later in the period, he intercepted a Johnny Unitas pass and set up Jerry Kramer's field goal for a 10-7 lead. Then, in the final minutes of the game and the Colts on Green Bay's 2-yard line, he deflected a fourth down pass by Unitas.

After the Philadelphia Eagles

(18-1) had gone ahead 14-10 in the first period, Chandler got the rest of the Giants points with his toe, setting a club record and coming within one of an NFL game mark. The victory left New York with a two-game lead over the Redskins, whom the play next week in Washington. The Eagles lost Hopalong Cassidy for the year with a broken leg.

An all-Texas American Football League championship seemed in the offing today as the two closest rivals of the division-leading Dallas Texans and Houston Oilers began to fade from sight.

The Texans still will have to contend with the second-place Denver Broncos in the Western Division, even after handling them 24-3 Sunday, but the biggest break has gone to the Oilers—and against the Boston Patriots.

Houston, now atop the Eastern Division by one-half game following a 21-17 victory over the Patriots, may find the pressure eased since Boston's veteran quarterback, Babe Parilli, has been lost for the rest of the season with a broken collarbone suffered in Sunday's clash.

Buffalo, with five victories and a tie in its last six games, handed winless Oakland its 10th loss in the only other scheduled game, coming from behind for a 10-6 victory.

Dallas (8-2) will have played two fewer games than Denver by next weekend as the Broncos have a Thanksgiving Day game at home against the New York Titans. Denver has suddenly lost its once-powerful attack, getting only 81 yards passing and 91 on the ground Sunday, and still must face an improving Dallas team once more.

The Texans' ace quarterback, Len Dawson, bombed Denver's secondary with three TD passes, raising his league-leading total to 24. Gene Mingo's first period field goal was the only offense Denver (7-4) could produce.

Lema Wins Mobile By 7-Stroke Edge

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—In racing, you could have said he lapped the field; in boxing it probably would have been a TKO; in football, or just about any sport, it was a run-away.

Tall Tony Lema won the fourth annual $5,000 Mobile Golf Tournament by a seven-stroke margin — the most since Arnold Palmer captured a PGA sanctioned tournament title by a seven-stroke edge earlier this year.

The $2,000 top prize boosted his official winnings this year to $28,488 and moved him from 17th to 14th place among the leading pro money-winners of the year.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., shot the best card of the closing round, a 67, despite bogeying both of the final two holes. He finished with 28 and picked up second-place money of $1,500.

The New York Giants have seven veterans of 10 or more years experience.

coach at CHS, announced today that all Saturday morning sessions would be dismissed at approximately 11:30 a. m. He also stated that all boys participating will be required to take showers following the practice sessions.

Monroe Indians Win Thrilling 69-68 Contest

Hunt Scores Winning Bucket in Final Eight Seconds of Tilt

A 23 point fourth quarter provided the impetus to give the Monroe Indians a thrilling 69-68 cage win Saturday at Clarksburg.

The Indians trailed the Ross County team during most of the game, and were 12 points down with four minutes remaining in the final period.

The last quarter rally was capped by Mickey Hunt who scored the winning bucket with eight seconds of playing time left.

Hunt garnered scoring laurels in the game with 26 points. He hit 11 from the field and four free throws.

Gene Long netted seven field goals and one charity toss for 15 points and Jim Shell finished the game with 14 on six buckets and two charity tosses. Tom Seeley also hit double figures for the winners with 10.

The Clarksburg attack was led by Large with 22 point. The Ross County quintet lost the services of their 6-foot 5-inch center, Gerald Rhinehart who sprained his ankle late in the first half. The big cager had scored 11 points on two field goals and seven free throws while he was in the game.

One Monroe cager left the game via the foul route and three other cagers were in serious trouble with four personals when the game ended.

The Clarksburg reserves won 47-21. The next game for the Indians is Nov. 30 when they host Jackson.

Game Protectors Thorough In Enforcing Wildlife Laws

A game protector spends approximately one-third of his time on wildlife management, one-third on fish management and one-third on law enforcement during the year.

However, during the upland game season, a majority of his time is spent on law enforcement.

It is not at all unusual for him to roll out of bed long before daylight and patrol the fields until after dark. The 14-16 hour day is the rule rather than the exception during the early part of the pheasant, quail and rabbit seasons. This is especially true on opening day, Saturdays and holidays.

And if you, as a hunter, have ever been tempted to shoot an extra cock pheasant after already bagging the limit, or down that hen bird that flew up after a particularly fruitless day in the fields ... forget it.

THE GAME protector not only spends long hours checking hunters and enforcing the game laws but also does his job very thoroughly. A Saturday afternoon spent with Fred Schob and Hank Martin made this quite evident.

The two game protectors, working together, covered the northwest portion of Pickaway County.

They left Circleville shortly after 1 p. m., heading north on Route 23. A little more than four hours later they arrived back in the city, coming in on Route 22.

During that period they had traveled most of the roads in Scioto and Darby Twp. and stopped at the William Green farm which is a public hunting area.

They also checked a portion of Monroe and Perry Twp. They talked to 40-50 hunters.

SATURDAY was a miserable day and certainly a great many potential nimrods preferred to spend the afternoon watching or listening to their favorite football team on television or radio.

Hank and Fred didn't slight any hunter they saw. If the nimrod had killed a pheasant, few of them did Saturday, they asked to see the bird.

If the hunter's car was nearby, they asked if they could check the auto. And again they did a thorough job of checking.

Hunters, or at least the ones checked Saturday, are generally careful with their weapons, making a special effort not to point the shotgun at anybody.

A few were careless. One who had been drinking was particularly so, although he probably didn't realize that he was.

All hunters checked Saturday were cooperative, and polite.

ONE VIOLATION Martin and Schob watched for particularly was road hunters — persons who shoot pheasants or rabbits from their cars.

These persons generally drive the back roads, frequently are well dressed and sometimes make it a family project. The wife drives while the husband does the shooting. If the children are along, it is their duty to get the game.

But no violators were apprehended Saturday.

Syracuse played a 14-game football schedule in 1893.

Last Big Weekend Brings Home Glory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The last big weekend of collegiate football in Ohio this year went by in a blaze of gridiron glory as Buckeye teams shattered a host of talented out-of-state opponents.

Ohio State headed the list. The Buckeyes broke away from their win-one-lose-one form this year and overpowered Oregon 26-7. The Bucks, with three fullbacks hammering big holes in the Webfoot line, showed the form which pre-season picksters said would lead them to a national championship. The victory, however, only assured Ohio State of a winning season as it goes into its annual finale with Michigan with a 5-3 mark.

Oregon wasn't the only out-of-stater to be caught in the Ohio juggernaut.

Xavier toppled Kentucky 14-9; Dayton shut out Wichita 8-0; Bowling Green, winner of the Mid-American Conference, mauled Southern Illinois 21-0; Ohio University, smarting from its first defeat last week, took it out on Western Michigan, 32-16; Toledo edged Tulsa 21-18; Wittenberg nipped unbeaten Hofstra 16-12, and Hiram smashed defensive stalwart Grove City, Pa., 40-12.

Miami dumped Cincinnati 38-16 and later accepted a bid to play Houston in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla. End and kicking specialist Bob Jencks booted the 17th field goal of his career to tie the national record.

John Carroll joined Wittenberg as the only unbeaten - untied teams in the Buckeye State in 1962. The Blue Streaks ended their seven-game season with a 13-0 shut-out over Washington & Jefferson.

In winning the Presidents' Conference crown, the Streaks set four national defensive records: Holding opposition to an average of minus one yard a game rushing; allowing opposition minus .032 yards per rush; allowing opposition 44.4 yards a game in total gain, and allowing opposition 1.0 yards per offensive play.

Wittenberg (9-0) won its Ohio Conference championship a week ago, but six loop games were played Saturday. Akron crushed Mount Union 53-0; Capital snapped a four-game losing streak to beat Otterbein 13-0; Denison nipped rival Ohio Wesleyan 14-13.

Staggering Columbus, which has lost its home, was trounced for the second straight week by Wheeling, 33-7, as the Ironmen pulled into a one game lead over the Capitals for the Eastern Division title.

The only other game on the card, Cleveland vs. Louisville, was forfeited to Cleveland after the Raiders disbanded.

Next week Indianapolis is scheduled to play the defunct Raiders and Columbus and Grand Rapids tangle. Unless league officials rule otherwise, the Warriors automatically will win their game and the pressure will be on Grand Rapids.

Wheeling plays Cleveland Thanksgiving Day. A win will give the Ironmen the division championship; a loss, however, will have them watching with more than passing interest the Columbus-Grand Rapids tussle.

Wally Mahle, 6-foot-3 Syracuse quarterback from Erie, Pa., earned letters in football, basketball and baseball at Fort Le Boeuf School in Waterford, Pa.

Steve Brooks, who has been enjoying a banner campaign on New Jersey race tracks this season, was born in a covered wagon near McCook, Neb.

United League Heads into Final Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One United Football League team already has folded and another has lost its home, but the 2-year-old professional loop goes into its final week with four teams battling it out for division championships.

Indianapolis shut out Chicago 34-0 and, coupled with a 34-21 Grand Rapids defeat at Toledo, moved into a tie with the Blazers. The same two teams played off for the title last year with Grand Rapids winning and going on for the league crown.

Staggering Columbus, which has lost its home, was trounced for the second straight week by Wheeling, 33-7, as the Ironmen pulled into a one game lead over the Capitals for the Eastern Division title.

The only other game on the card, Cleveland vs. Louisville, was forfeited to Cleveland after the Raiders disbanded.

Blind Erling Stordahl (nearest camera) competes with partner Haakon Brusveen in a race on skis

Ski School Formed For Norway Blind

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

The world's first ski school for the blind is open for its second season in Norway.

In the little town of Beitostolen, in a land where skiing is almost a way of life, Erling Stordahl, blind since birth, has met his greatest challenge. He has always enjoyed skiing. But in his unusual school he and Haakon Brusveen, Olympic master at Squaw Valley, have realized an ambition of seven years' standing.

During all this time, the talented blind man has met with his warm friend each year to talk and plot about the ski school for the blind, believing that there should be no real reason why blind persons cannot enjoy the sport.

Today, with Brusveen as instructor and Stordahl as entertainment director, participant and catalyst, the school begins its second season before the beginning of the long Norwegian winter.

Since Stordahl has a background as an outstanding entertainer, it is perhaps natural that many of the students are blind singers and musicians. But there are farmers, too, and business men — all enthusiastic to learn to ski despite their handicap.

There are other faces familiar to Norwegians. Trygve Kassin and Hans Aas are also members of the school. Respectively, they are the leader of the Norwegian Blind People's League and the league's sports director.

This is not a for-men-only project. Women also attend. Nor is the student roster exclusively Norwegian. Finns and Swedes also attend the school, for instruction in the sport.

The mountains are ideal for instruction, with modest hills available for the duration of the earlier courses as 40 participants, with their instructor, get into position. The ski-runs become increasingly difficult as students achieve self-confidence and the blind young men and women become progressively filled with a rewarding feeling of understanding for their skiing skills.

"I had the advantage to have lived in the mountains and, of course, am accustomed to my skis," said Erling Stordahl.

"However, it was rather difficult to manage, at first, out on the hill. It takes time before you can roar down. Later I became familiar with it and set out on longer excursions of four to five miles. But I had to proceed more slowly than the average skier since I had to orient myself slowly."

"Just to think that in the daytime we are encircled by the view of the mountains and the trail upward is a whole mile, and that we can walk it all alone; it can often be wonderful to be alone, especially on skis."

One of the most difficult things for a blind person is to keep his balance, because he does not have visual contact. Skiing needs balance. For this reason it is best for learners to accustom themselves, even from the beginning, to walk without ski poles. By so doing, the skiers do not need any "feelers" to manage.

"You can avoid the temptation to fall easily by leaning on the poles," says Stordahl, and then, throwing away the poles, he walks ahead, setting an example, with bent knees and weight forward.

"Let's try it without poles," proposes instructor Solveig Wilhelmsen. Sweden's Bengt Hovlien, Finland's Max Aimiivaara and Norway's Haraalv Sverre slide ahead and each takes to the trail worthy of his skiing nation, managing to distinguish himself without the "feelers" and support which Stordahl disdains.

The ski sport is a fine sport for the handicapped in Beitostolen. Here the white and friendly mountains offer excitement, thrills and hope for the sightless.

Two Lacerations, Dog Bite Treated

A dog bite was the source of injury for one person who received emergency treatment in Berger Hospital during the weekend. Three persons were treated and released.

Lester Thimmes, 12, of 439 E. Union St., was bitten on the upper right arm by a neighbor's dog.

Deborah Huffer, 11 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Huffer, Stoutsville, lacerated her left knee on the corner of a dresser.

Bruce DeBruin, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl DeBruin, Route 4, fell against a wall and lacerated his forehead.

4. The Soviet Union should learn as much as possible from advanced Western methods.

The premier called for "radical measures" to shake up the party's organization and work patterns. He said modern times demand this.

"Old organizational forms," he declared, "are, to a degree, becoming a drag on the party's guidance of production."

The meeting of the powerful, 175-member Central Committee was called for the specific task of putting more life into the economy, much of which has been hindered and stifled by excessive bureaucracy but even more by lack of investment capital.

Revealing next year's production plans, Khrushchev said there should be an 8.5 per cent increase in capital goods. For consumer goods the proposed increase is 6.3 per cent.

Khrushchev said capital investment would total more than 100 billion rubles, (one ruble is officially valued at $1.11).

As for agriculture, he called for an increase of 32 mil. acres under field crops.

The meeting was behind closed doors. Khrushchev's speech was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass. The session is expected to last the rest of the week.

On the eve of the meeting, the Communist party organ Pravda had defended the government's Cuban rocket withdrawal and accused Red China of siding with the imperialists. The article also made an implied attack on Red China's border war against India.

U.N. Panel Poised for Call For Disarmament Negotiation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations and a progress report by mid-April was expected to win overwhelming approval in the United Nations today.

Another resolution recommending that nuclear weapons be barred from Latin America faced an uncertain future because of Cuban demands that it apply to U.S. bases in the Caribbean.

The General Assembly's 110-nation main political committee scheduled morning and afternoon meetings in an effort to reach a vote today on the two proposals.

The first resolution, sponsored by 31 countries, calls on the 18-nation disarmament committee to resume its negotiations in Geneva "expeditiously and in a spirit of constructive compromise, until agreement has been reached" on general and complete disarmament with effective controls.

The proposal asks the disarmament committee to report to the assembly on its progress not later than the second week of April. The committee, which recessed Sept. 8 to allow for the U.N. debate, is scheduled to meet again Nov. 26.

The second resolution recommends that the countries of Latin America agree to dispose of any nuclear weapons or nuclear delivery vehicles which may be on their territory and not to manufacture, receive, store or test such devices. It calls for verification procedures.

Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador, sponsoring the proposal, were expected to confer on their future course in view of the Cuban-U.S. disagreement. There was speculation that they might withhold the resolution from a vote for the time being.

Cuban chief delegate Carlos M. Lechuga told the committee Friday the idea of making Latin America a denuclearized zone was "very acceptable to Cuba." But he said Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone — both U.S. military strongholds — should be included and all big-power military bases in Latin America should be done away with, especially the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean said the United States was sympathetic toward the resolution. But he declared that the Cuban recommendations were unacceptable to the rest of Latin America and to the United States.

The ski-runs become increasingly difficult as students achieve self-confidence and the blind young men and women become progressively filled with a rewarding feeling of understanding for their skiing skills.

"I had the advantage to have lived in the mountains and, of course, am accustomed to my skis," said Erling Stordahl.

"However, it was rather difficult to manage, at first, out on the hill. It takes time before you can roar down. Later I became familiar with it and set out on longer excursions of four to five miles. But I had to proceed more slowly than the average skier since I had to orient myself slowly.

"Just to think that in the daytime we are encircled by the view of the mountains and the trail upward is a whole mile, and that we can walk it all alone; it can often be wonderful to be alone, especially on skis."

One of the most difficult things for a blind person is to keep his balance, because he does not have visual contact. Skiing needs balance. For this reason it is best for learners to accompany themselves, even from the beginning, to walk without ski poles. By so doing, the skiers do not need any "feelers" to manage.

"You can avoid the temptation to fall easily by leaning on the poles," says Stordahl, and then, throwing away the poles, he walks ahead, setting an example, with bent knees and weight forward.

"Let's try it without poles," proposes instructor Solveig Wilhelmssen. Sweden's Bengt Hovlien, Finland's Max Aimiavaara and Norway's Harald Sverre slide ahead and each takes to the trail worthy of his skiing nation, managing to distinguish himself without the "feelers" and support which Stordahl disdains.

The ski sport is a fine sport for the handicapped in Beitostolen. Here the white and friendly mountains offer excitement, thrills and hope for the sightless.

Khrush Orders

tory buildings and other buildings should be taken away from industries and put under a special building organization.

3. Research institutes should be developed in connection with specific industries, and should not be controlled by the Academy of Sciences in Moscow.

4. The Soviet Union should learn as much as possible from advanced Western methods.

The premier called for "radical measures" to shake up the party's organization and work patterns. He said modern times demand this.

"Old organizational forms," he declared, "are, to a degree, becoming a drag on the party's guidance of production."

The meeting of the powerful, 175-member Central Committee was called for the specific task of putting more life into the economy, much of which has been hindered and stifled by excessive bureaucracy but even more by lack of investment capital.

Revealing next year's production plans, Khrushchev said there should be an 8.5 per cent increase in capital goods. For consumer goods the proposed increase is 6.3 per cent.

Khrushchev said capital investment would total more than billion rubles. (One ruble is officially valued at $1.11).

As for agriculture, he called for an increase of 32 mil. acres under field crops.

The meeting was behind closed doors. Khrushchev's speech was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass. The session is expected to last the rest of the week.

On the eve of the meeting, the Communist party organ Pravda had defended the government's Cuban rocket withdrawal and accused Red China of siding with the imperialists. The article also made an implied attack on Red China's border war against India.

U.N. Panel Poised for Call For Disarmament Negotiation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations and a progress report by mid-April was expected to win overwhelming approval in the United Nations today.

Another resolution recommending that nuclear weapons be barred from Latin America faced an uncertain future because of Cuban demands that it apply to U.S. bases in the Caribbean.

The General Assembly's 110-nation main political committee scheduled morning and afternoon meetings in an effort to reach a vote today on the two proposals.

The first resolution, sponsored by 31 countries, calls on the 18-nation disarmament committee to resume its negotiations in Geneva "expeditiously and in a spirit of constructive compromise, until agreement has been reached" on general and complete disarmament with effective controls.

The proposal asks the disarmament committee to report to the assembly on its progress not later than the second week of April. The committee, which recessed Sept. 8 to allow for the U.N. debate, is scheduled to meet again Nov. 26.

The second resolution recommends that the countries of Latin America agree to dispose of any nuclear weapons or nuclear delivery vehicles which may be on their territory and not to manufacture, receive, store or test such devices. It calls for verification procedures.

Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador, sponsoring the proposal, were expected to confer on their future course in view of the Cuban-U.S. disagreement. There was speculation that they might withhold the resolution from a vote for the time being.

Cuban chief delegate Carlos M. Lechuga told the committee Friday the idea of making Latin America a denuclearized zone was "very acceptable to Cuba." But he said Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone — both U.S. military strongholds — should be included and all big-power military bases in Latin America should be done away with, especially the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean said the United States was sympathetic toward the resolution. But he declared that the Cuban recommendations were unacceptable to the rest of Latin America and to the United States.
